REBEL VIEWS OF THE SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 18.

The following was received to-day at the headquarters of the army:

MEMPHIS, May 17, 1863.

Maj.-Gen. Halleck, General-in-Chief:

Papers of the 14th, from Vicksburgh and Jackson, report that GRANT defeated GRIGGS' brigade at Raymond, on Tuesday, the 12th. The rebel loss is admitted in the papers at 700.

The next day GRIGGS was reinforced by Gen. W. H. T. WALKER, of Georgia, when he was attacked at Mississippi Springs, and driven toward Jackson on Thursday.

A telegram from Canton says that "the Federals had taken Jackson from the east" probably by a cavalry movement.

Gen. JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON arrived at Jackson on the 13th, and went out towards Vicksburgh with three brigades. He must have been west of Jackson when the capture was made by our forces.

The force which Gen. GRANT fought—viz., GRIGGS' brigade—was from Port Hudson, and WALKER'S was from Jordan.

Every horse fit for service in Mississippi is claimed by the rebel Government, to mount their troops.

GRANT has struck the railroad near Edwards Station.

S. A. HURLBUT, Major-General.

MURFREESBORO, Sunday, May 17—10 P. M.

The Chattanooga Rebel of the 16th says:

Gen. GRANT has taken Jackson, Miss. He took it after a hard day's fighting.

MOBILE, Thursday, May 14.

Jackson, Miss., is occupied by the Federals. We fought all day, but could not hold the city.

A GREAT BATTLE IMMINENT.

CAIRO, Monday, March 16.

The latest dates from Gen. GRANT'S army through National channels, are to the 11th inst., via Milliken's Bend, 14th.

Gens. LOGAN and OSTERHAUS were marching toward Jackson, driving BOWEN, with a force reported at 15,000, before them, while Gen. GRANT was marching upon the Black River, and expecting to engage PEMBERTON at the bridge over that stream. PEMBERTON'S force was estimated at 30,000, and were said to be strongly intrenched near the bridge. A great battle there is imminent.

The health of the army is better than ever before.

The rebels, 300 strong, with two or three pieces of artillery, fired into the steamer Warner, 15 miles above Greenville, on Thursday, killing two and wounding four men. The fire was returned and several rebels killed.

THE BATTLE AT RAYMOND.

The Richmond Sentinel, of the 15th, has the following:

JACKSON, Miss., Tuesday, May 12.

The enemy yesterday advanced with a column of 12,000 men upon Raymond, Miss., where Gen. GREGG had 4,100 infantry, a few cavalry, and no artillery. Skirmishing began at 9 A. M., the enemy being continually reinforced till 1 P. M., when he opened battle heavily with musketry. Gen. GREGG fought two hours with musketry alone, when, learning that the enemy were heavily reinforced, and that the reinforcements were ready to engage, Gen. GREGG then retreated through Raymond. He will make a stand at Mississippi Spring, where he has been reinforced with his infantry and artillery.

THE PORT GIBSON VICTORY.

CONGRATULATORY ORDER FROM GEN. GRANT.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, IN THE FIELD, HARRISON'S FERRY, May 7.

SOLDIERS OF THE ARMY OF TENNESSEE: Once more I thank you for adding another victory to the long list of those previously won by your valor and endurance. The triumph gained over the enemy near Port Gibson, on the first, was one of the most important of the war. The capture of five cannon and more than 1,000 prisoners, the possession of Grand Gulf, and a firm foothold on the highlands between the Big Black and Bayou Pierre from whence we threaten the whole line of the enemy, are among the fruits of this brilliant achievement.

The march from Milliken's Bend to the point opposite Grand Gulf was made in stormy weather, over the worst of roads. Bridges and ferries had to be constructed. Moving by night as well as by day, with labor incessant, and extraordinary privations endured by men and officers, such as have been rarely paralleled in any campaign, not a murmur or complaint has been uttered. A few days' continuance of the same zeal and constancy will secure to this army crowning victories over the rebellion.

More difficulties and privations are before us; let us endure them manfully. Other battles are to be fought; let us fight them bravely. A grateful country will rejoice at our success, and history will record it with immortal honor.

(Signed,) U. S. GRANT,
Major-General Commanding.

REBEL VIEWS OF THE SITUATION.

The Petersburgh Express of the 15th says:

"The affairs about Vicksburgh at this time cannot be regarded as flattering. Although safe, it will require the utmost caution, courage and skill to avert disaster.

After having had a year's time to perfect all the defences, it appears that we are now set upon in the very quarter where we had least expected. It may be contraband to say this much, but it is due to the people that they should know how affairs stand, and if danger threatens, they are entitled to know in what quarter it is. The place for the next fight will be below Vicksburgh, or on the railroad between Vicksburgh and Jackson."

The Richmond Sentinel of the 15th, has an article on the "News from Mississippi," and after reviewing the situation, and admitting the defeat of BOWEN, says:

"The first desire of the enemy will be to cut the railroad which leads from Jackson to Vicksburgh, and over which the forces at Vicksburgh obtain supplies. At Raymond they are only five miles from this road, and the passage of the Big Black is over long approaches of trestle work, rendering it a very vulnerable point. It seems, therefore, that a conflict with the enemy cannot long be delayed in that quarter. We have too much at hazard to allow delay. We do not know what our force is compared to that of the enemy; but it will not do to stop to count. We must fight, at whatever odds, and we cannot afford to be beaten under the circumstances we have named. We are happy to learn that Gen. JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON is in command of our troops.

The progress of the enemy thus far in this attempt to gain the rear of Vicksburgh and take Jackson has not been without opposition. There was a heavy fight near Grand Gulf, Port Gibson, in which Gen. BOWEN, with 5,000 men, held and severely punished a greatly outnumbering force of the enemy; but was ultimately outflanked and forced to fall back, with the loss of a Louisiana regiment taken prisoners, beside a heavy list of killed and wounded. Subsequently the enemy were repulsed at Hawkinson's Ferry, near the mouth of the Big Black, but their superior force has enabled them to prosecute their march, as we have stated, along the highway between and parallel to Bayou Pierre on the south, and the Big Black on the north. This leads them toward Jackson, and brings them near to the bridge, by which the railroad from Vicksburgh to Jackson crosses from the north to the south side of the Big Black. Here the two armies will probably join battle."

There is no further news from Mississippi in the Richmond papers of the 16th.

Capture and Occupation of Grand Gulf.

Admiral Porter Congratulates the Gunboat Fleet on its Exploits.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DISHAROON'S PLANTATION, NEAR GRAND GULF, Saturday, May 2, 1863.

Something strange delays the army of Gen. GRANT in taking possession of Grand Gulf. From this point, where we can see by the aid of a glass all that is passing at that place, we strain our eyes in hourly expectation of seeing the Union army march in and take possession. That the rebels were driven back with considerable loss yesterday at Port Gibson is matter of history, and four hundred prisoners in our hands attest on which side were the fortunes of the day. To-day, at noon, the Lafayette was sent out to feel the lower battery, to ascertain if the rebels were still on hand, or had run away to escape the Union forces now pressing upon them from their rear. She approached to within 1,500 yards of the rebel works, watching cautiously every movement indicating the presence of the enemy. Everything was as quiet as a Quaker meeting, but the long black object, which lay glistening upon the parapet in front, with a large round hole in one end, could not be mistaken as belonging to that peaceful family. Below the long line of earthworks, which was surmounted by a large sandy mound, was a square of fresh breastworks, in which were detected a large number of heads bobbing around, and the occasional glimmer of bright objects. It was a rebel rifle-pit near the water. Still the Lafayette kept creeping up to the suspicious-looking locality. Shortly Mr. DEMING, the pilot, saw the quick movement of a half-dozen heads and arms, the dark object aforesaid turned its open throat toward the head of the ship, and the pilot had an errand down in his iron turret. In another moment a tremendous concussion shook the ship from stem to stern, and one of our eleven-inch bow-guns sent a ten-second shell howling into the rebel battery. In an instant there was a flash, a puff of smoke on the rebel fort, and the s-s-s-n-g-g of a rifle shot directly over the ship. It dropped into the water a quarter of a mile astern. Bang went a second from our best bower, plump into the enemy's embrasure, knocking up several cart-loads of earth. But in another moment the rebel gunners sent a response, also, to this salute from their rifled thirty-two. Two more guns were fired, and one returned from the fort. The object of the reconnoissance had been accomplished. The rebels were still there, and no mistake. The steamer then slowly dropped down again out of range, and affairs resumed their accustomed quiet.

At 3 P. M. a strange steamer was descried coming up from below. The glass soon defined her high black hull, and tall smoke-pipes as that of the ram Switzerland. She arrived an hour afterward, bringing Lieut.-Col. JOHN A. ELLET, commander of the ram fleet, with dispatches from Rear-Admiral FARRAGUT. She left Red River last evening at 7½ o'clock. The Admiral was there blockading the Red River closely. She brings interesting news from the lower fleet and from the army.

Gen. BANKS has arrived at Alexandria, in Red River, with his whole command, thus intercepting all rebel reinforcements and supplies from that quarter. Col. ELLET reports that Gen. BANKS, during his visit to Bayou Teche, had captured the Queen of the West and another gunboat, besides destroying several rebel transports. He had engaged and defeated the rebel Gens. TAYLOR and LIBBY, and taken 2,000 prisoners. The rebels then fell back toward Alexandria, carrying away from Fort De Russy all their heavy guns, including one or two obtained from the Indianola. The rebels are expecting KIRBY SMITH down the Ouchita and Red River. Five thousand troops had been sent away from Port Hudson, there being nothing there on which to subsist them, also three thousand cavalry. They are hard up—so says the reliable contraband.

The Lafayette and several other gunboats go down to the Red River at daylight. We hope Grand Gulf is safe.

Herewith I inclose the address of Rear-Admiral PORTER to the fleet; also, one of the reports of the commanders.

DE SOTO.

ADDRESS OF REAR-ADMIRAL PORTER TO THE GUNBOAT FLEET.

GENERAL ORDER.—I take this occasion to thank the officers and men engaged in the attack on the forts at Grand Gulf for the unflinching gallantry displayed in that affair. Never has there been so long and steady a fight against forts so well and ably commanded, yet at the end of five and a half hours the guns were silenced, four or five dismounted, (as we learn by deserters,) another commanding officer and his Aid killed.

We have met losses which we cannot but deplore; still we should not regret the death of those who died so nobly at their guns. Officers and men: Let us always be ready to make the sacrifice when duty requires it. Those who have shared in the engagement of the 29th of April may always speak of it with honest pride. It is not our fault that the enemy's guns and munitions of war are not in our hands—ours is the duty to silence batteries—it cannot be expected that we shall land and take possession.

(Signed) DAVID D. PORTER,
Acting Rear-Admiral Command'g Miss. Squadron.

BELOW GRAND GULF, May 2, 1863.

REPORT OF CAPT. J. M'LEOD MURPHY, COMMANDING GUNBOAT CARONDELET.

Rear-Admiral D. D. Porter Commanding Mississippi Squadron:

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the part taken by this vessel in the action of the 29th ult. In obedience to the signal I took my position in the line of battle, astern of the Louisville, and approached the upper battery at the point of Rocks, Grand Gulf, within about 1,500 yards distance, at 8 A. M., and opened fire on it with the three 9-inch guns, comprising the bow battery: then steamed slowly down, passed all the batteries, discharging our bow and portside guns (one 42-pounder rifle and two 8-inch guns) as occasion afforded. I then rounded to under the bar, steamed up stream, preserving the line of order, and maneuvred the vessel so as to bring our guns to bear most efficiently; the bow and starboard side guns actively engaged.

Obeying the signal, I ordered the firing to cease, and steamed up the river, arriving at Hard Times, landing at 2 P. M. The action continued almost incessantly above five hours.

At about 8 P. M. we again steamed down the river with the squadron, firing at the batteries as we passed, and rounded to abreast of the lower battery, which was silenced.

The army transports having passed, we steamed down and made a landing at this point.

This vessel was struck five times, occasioning not very serious damages, and in the Engineers' department our loss was two wheel arms, two circle segments and two wheel braces cut off. The boats were also stove. Fortunately, no casualties occurred among the officers and crew, who conducted themselves throughout with great coolness, courage and efficiency.

I inclose the gunner's report of ammunition expended, from which it will be seen that we fired 273 shots.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. W. McLEOD MURPHY,
Lieutenant Commanding.

Grand Gulf Occupied by the Naval Forces—Condition of the Fortifications.

GRAND GULF, Miss., Sunday Morning, May 3, 1863—8 o'clock.

Grand Gulf is ours! One of the strongest positions on the Mississippi, both naturally and by reason of its preparations of defence, was abandoned at daylight this morning, the enemy blowing up his magazines and spiking his guns. Three regiments of infantry, which lay concealed in rifle-pits within easy range of the shore, marched away from the place, leaving nothing behind but the wreck of their magazines and six guns spiked. At 5 o'clock the Lafayette was under way, steaming up toward the batteries. Some unusual explosions and a quantity of smoke rising over the works indicated that the enemy had abandoned the position. The Lafayette was soon followed by the Carondelet, Pittsburgh and the Benton, flagship. It became quite an exciting race to see who should be first to reach the scene of our late fierce engagement. At 6 o'clock the Lafayette, being some half mile in advance of the other gunboats, arrived opposite to one of the chief batteries, which had annoyed us exceedingly during the Wednesday action.

Ensign ELIAS SMITH, of the Lafayette, requested permission to land with his third cutter's crew and plant the ship's ensign on the rebel works. Capt. WALKE gave the desired order, and in less than five minutes Mr. SMITH, with Quartermaster JOHN BEFFEE carrying the flag, followed by some dozen of his division, were on the shore, and running across the intervale and up the hill. At 6¼ A. M. Mr. SMITH unfurled the Stars and Stripes upon the end of a boat-hook which he carried along for the purpose. The excited seamen now greeted the old flag with three hearty cheers, which was responded to from the deck of the Lafayette with an enthusiasm worthy of the occasion.

I omitted to mention that Messrs. LOVELL, PAUL MORGAN and WINHAM, Master's Mates, in charge of a squad of marines, followed the party with the flag to top of the hill to protect it by their sharpshooters.

Almost simultaneously with the landing of Mr. SMITH and his party, a boat's crew from the Pittsburgh landed and pushed up to the battery, planting the flag alongside of the Lafayette. The Carondelet, meantime, steamed past the other vessels, and landing at the Point of Rocks, planted the old flag on that battery—the strongest of the whole line of rebel works.

Cheers now rung along the shores and hillsides from the joyous crews. There waved the brave old ensign in the quiet morning air from the very battlements whence the rebel flag had so lately floated. It was a Sabbath morning thrice blessed.

At 8 o'clock the Admiral landed with his officers and men, and took formal possession of the place.

Not a vestige remained of the large mounds which covered the magazines of the enemy. All the guns were spiked, and around one—a rifled 32, of 57 cwt.—a fire had been kindled to destroy the carriage. Some sailors were throwing water on the fire, while others were peeking into the muzzle. The writer cautioned the men to stand clear of the gun, as it was liable to explode. He had scarcely uttered the words before it went off, capsizing the piece end over end down the embankment. The men lay astonished and sprawling around in divers places. Nobody hurt.

The rifle-pits and works of the enemy extended along the shore from the Point of Rocks, continuously, for half a mile, and are of great strength and extent—capable of sheltering many thousand troops. All the field artillery, of which there were many and very effective pieces, had been carried off.

The only residents about the place were two negro families, who welcomed us with every exclamation of joy. "God a'mighty be tank;" "Glad you come," and such like expressions, manifested the sincerity of their joy at the capture of the place. I regret to say that the men did not respect their pigs and chickens, but perhaps they belonged to others less loyal.

The capture of Grand Gulf is one of the best fruits of the late movement. It is due, primarily, to the naval attack, but might have held out longer but for the fact that the troops had already reached their rear. There is glory enough for the army and navy both. Let it be fairly divided.

Presentation of Colors to the Colored Massachusetts Regiment.

SPEECH OF GOV. ANDREW.

BOSTON, Monday, May 18.

The colored regiment, now full at the camp in Readville, known as the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts, was to-day presented with regimental colors. The ceremonies were impressive and interesting. The flags, four in number, comprised a national flag, presented by the young colored ladies of Boston; a national ensign, presented by the Colored Ladies' Relief Society; an emblematic banner, presented by the ladies and gentlemen of Boston, friends of the regiment, and a flag presented by the relatives and friends of the late Lieut. PUTNAM.

The regiment formed in hollow square, when prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. GRIMES. Gov. ANDREW then presented the flags in an eloquent speech. He spoke of the exceptional character of the regiment as marking an era in the history of the war, the Commonwealth, the country, and humanity. He was identified with the regiment and stood or fell as a man and magistrate with the history of the regiment. The men of this regiment had now given them an opportunity to labor for a whole race of men.

Col. SHAW, on behalf of the regiment, made a soldierlike response. Over 1,000 people were present, including many prominent citizens.

Cruelty of the Rebels to Our Captured Soldiers.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, May 16.

Two small boats, which have been running for some time from Norfolk through the Dismal Swamp Canal to North Carolina, carrying mails, &c., were captured yesterday near Currituck bridge, 40 miles from Norfolk. They were the Emily and Arrow, and with all on board, were taken off towards Franklin, on the Blackwater. The Emily was captured from the enemy at the commencement of the war. The rebels made our men work the boats, in order to pass our gunboats without detection. Dr. MYERS, of Pittsburgh, is doubtless among the captured.

The track of the Seabrook and Roanoke Railroad is being taken up by our Suffolk forces between Carrsville and the junction with the Norfolk and Petersburgh Railroad.

An ordinance has been passed in Petersburgh prohibiting the taking of Federal money.

RETALIATION.

The Petersburgh Express, of the 15th, says:

"The retaliatory resolutions adopted by the Confederate Congress provide that every commissioned officer who shall command negroes for military service against the Confederate States, when captured shall be put to death, and negroes, when thus captured, shall be delivered to State authorities, to be dealt with according to the present or future laws of the State."

GUNS OF THE KEOKUK RAISED.

From the Charleston Mercury.

"The guns of the famous iron-clad now lie on South Commercial Wharf, Charleston. They consist of two long 11-inch Columbiads, and will soon be mounted for our defence, valuable acquisitions no less than handsome trophies of the battle of Charleston Harbor."

ATROCIOUS TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

A soldier of an Ohio regiment, taken at Rome, Ga., was shot on Wednesday last, while reaching for a cracker at Belle Isle Prison.

Our prisoners were compelled to walk from their places of capture to Richmond, and from thence to City Point. Some gave out on the march, and could proceed no further. A member of the Twentieth New-York regiment died on the route.

A rebel Captain (TURNER) had charge of our prisoners from Richmond to City Point, and is represented to be a brute of the blackest kind. A soldier of the One Hundred and Nineteenth Pennsylvania Regiment was bayoneted on the route by order of TURNER, because he could proceed no further. He would not even allow the men a drink of water.

EXCHANGING PRISONERS.

Propellor Whilden has arrived at Fortress Monroe with a load of rebel prisoners. The rebel Maj. PRENTICE is on board, with 250 other prisoners bound to Richmond for exchange. He is the son of Mr. PRENTICE of the Louisville Journal.

The steamer State of Maine has arrived from City Point with 1,000 prisoners: the Maple Leaf, with 200; the Express, with 600; the Robert Morris, with 1,000; and the John Rice, with 1,100.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, May 17.

The propeller Diamond State, Capt. SICKLER, arrived from Washington to-day.

Steamship Horace, arrived, this morning, from Baltimore, bound to New-Orleans.

Steamship S. R. Spaulding, Capt. HOWES, arrived from Annapolis to-day; also steamer Belvidere and Eastern State. The steamer Georgiana arrived at 5 P. M. from Yorktown, and reports the arrival at that place of the steamer Metamora.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 18.

THE WHITE HOUSE [illegible] RAID.

"Trains from this city to White House, on the York River Railroad, have been making their regular trips."

IMPOLEN UP FOR LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA.

The guerrilla IMBODEN is a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the same ticket with "Extra Billy" SMITH, who is up for Governor in opposition to Thos. S. FLOURNOY.

A REBEL PAPER ON RETALIATION.

The Richmond Enquirer has a very long editorial on the subject of retaliation, and pours forth great griefs over the difficulties which beset the matter. It admits that the only chance for retaliation is in accordance with the resolution of the rebel Congress authorising the putting to death of all white officers found connected with negro regiments. But then, it adds, "the Yankees will in turn hang our officers,"—and closes with a regular "boo hoo" over the misfortunes of the Confederacy.

INCOME TAX FOR 1863.

The Income Tax is imposed upon a certain proportion of the income of these two classes, viz.:

1. Every person residing in the United States; and every citizen residing abroad who is in the employment of the Government of the United States.

2. Every citizen of the United States residing abroad, and not in the employment of the Government of the United States.

Every person in the first class will be taxed at the rate of three per cent. when his or her annual gains, profits, or income exceed $600, and do not exceed $10,000.

Every person in the first class will be taxed at the rate of five per cent. when the annual gains, profits, or income exceed $10,000, after the following deductions are made from the gross amounts returned, (as per table, page 2,) viz.:

1. The $500 allowed by law.

2. Other national, State, and local taxes assessed for 1862, and paid.

3. Rent annually paid for the dwelling-house or estate occupied as the residence of the person assessed.

4. Necessary repairs to property yielding the income, or insurance thereon; or pay for hired laborers, and their subsistence, employed in conducting his business; or interest on incumbrances upon the property; or all, as the case may be.

Every person in the second class will be taxed at the rate of five per cent., whatever may be his or her annual gains, profits or income from property, securities and stocks owned in the United States, without other deductions than numbers 2 and 4 above stated.

Whenever the taxable income of a resident in the United States, ascertained as above, exceeds $10,000, and upon a portion of said amount three per cent. has been withheld by the officers of companies, corporations and associations, from interest or dividends therein due him, such income will be subject to a tax of two per cent. additional upon so much thereof as may have been previously subjected to a duty of three per cent. by the officers of the companies, corporations or associations aforesaid.

But in no case, whether a person is subject to a tax of three or five per cent., is a higher rate of tax than 1½ per cent. to be collected from that portion of income derived from interest upon notes, bonds, or other securities of the United States.

Where a husband and wife live together, and their taxable income is in excess of $600, they will be entitled to but one deduction of $600, that being the average fixed by law as an estimated commutation for the expense of maintaining a family. Where they live apart, by divorce or under contract of separation, they will be taxed separately, and be each entitled to a deduction of $600.

IMPRESSMENT OF HORSES.

Gen. STAHL and the officers under him are impressing into the Government service all the horses they can find in the front, without regard to whom they belong—Union men or rebels. This policy has become absolutely necessary, in order to prevent this species of property from being taken by the rebel guerrillas, who rob friend and foe alike. A board of officers has been appointed by Gen. HEINTZELMAN to examine and adjust the claims of loyal men, whose horses have been seized.

DEATH OF LIEUT. WELD.

Lieut. CHARLES T. WELD, Seventeeth regular infantry, died on the 14th, at Aquia Creek, from the effects of wounds received in the battle of Chancellorsville. He was a native of Hartford, Connecticut, and a brave and gallant officer.

MUST TAKE THE OATH.

Gen. HEINTZELMAN has ordered his chief quartermaster, Col. GREEN, not to pay any money to persons having claims against his command until they take the oath of allegiance. Col. GREEN'S monthly disbursements amount to near two hundred thousand dollars.

GEN. CAMPBELL.

Brig.-Gen. CHARLES CAMPBELL, severely wounded at Bull Run, under POPE, has been ordered to the West, where a separate command in the Indian Territory will be given him.

TO BE SENT SOUTH.

A hundred and thirty rebel officers and one hundred civilians will be sent South to-morrow.

PAROLED PRISONERS.

Seven thousand paroled prisoners, from Richmond, arrived at Annapolis to-day. Arrangements for their exchange will be completed in a few days.

THE SEVENTEENTH NEW-YORK.

The Seventeenth New-York left Stoneman's Station this morning at 8 o'clock, and will be in New-York to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock—the fastest transportation of troops during the war.

PROBABLE PROMOTION.

Lieut.-Col. INGALLS will probably be made a Brigadier-General, upon the earnest demand of Gen. HOOKER, for his services in the field.

THE NEGRO TROOPS.

Two companies of the negro regiment were mustered in to-day. The contrabands in camp also today commenced working the abandoned Secesh farms across the Potomac.

GEN. HOOKER'S OLD DIVISION.

Brig.-Gen. HUMPHREYS has been assigned to the command of the division of the late Gen. BERRY, formerly Gen. HOOKER'S. He will take command in a few days.

GENERALS IN WASHINGTON.

Major-Gen. SLOCUM, Brig.-Gens. HOWE, AYRES and HUMPHREYS are in the city this evening.

PROPOSALS FOR FLOUR.

Col. BECKWITH, Commissary of Subsistence, invites sealed proposals, until the 30th inst., for furnishing his department with thirty thousand barrels of flour, the delivery of which is to be commenced on the 10th of June, or as soon thereafter as the Government may direct, at the rate of eight hundred barrels per day, to be delivered either at the Government warehouse, Georgetown, at the wharves, or at the railroad depot in this city. The flour will be subjected to rigid inspection before being received. An oath of allegiance must accompany each bid.

THE NEGRO REGIMENT.

The Secretary of War, on application of Commissioner DOIX, has consented to receive the colored soldiers of the District by companies, instead of requiring the entire regiment to be raised before accepting. The recruits will be mustered in on Monday, and quarters provided for them.

THE AWFUL ABUSE OF CALOMEL.

SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4, 1863.

I. From the reports of Medical Inspectors and the Sanitary reports to this office, it appears that the administration of calomel has so frequently been pushed to excess by military surgeons as to call for prompt steps by this office to correct this abuse; an abuse the melancholy effects of which, as officially reported, have exhibited themselves not only in innumerable cases of profuse salivation, but in the not infrequent occurrence of mercurial gangrene.

It seeming impossible in any other manner to properly restrict the use of this powerful agent, it is directed that it be struck from the supply table, and that no further requisitions for this medicine be approved by Medical Directors. This is done with the more confidence, as modern pathology has proved the impropriety of the use of mercury in very many of those diseases in which it was formerly unfailingly administered.

II. The records of this office having conclusively proved that diseases prevalent in the army may be treated as efficiently without tartar emetic as therewith, and the fact of its remaining upon the supply table being a tacit invitation to its use, tartar emetic is also struck from the supply table of the army.

No doubt can exist that more harm has resulted from the misuse of both these agents, in the treatment of disease, than benefit from their proper administration.

W. A. HAMMOND, Surgeon General.

THE WAR IN KENTUCKY.

A Skirmish and Rout of the Rebels—Another Invasion on Foot.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, May 18.

The following is a special dispatch to the Evening Bulletin:

CINCINNATI, Monday, May 18.

A letter from Russellville, Ky., states that on Wednesday a party of 60 mounted guerrillas fired on a train near South Union. The guard on the train returned the fire and routed the rebels, with the loss of one killed and wounded.

The rebels are collecting a large cavalry force south of the Cumberland River, and a large infantry force in East Tennessee, and intend to advance into Kentucky this month, under Gen. BRECKINRIDGE.

FROM THE REBEL STATES.

How the Heights of Fredericksburgh Were Won and Lost.

A REPORTED VICTORY BY GENERAL PRICE.

We have received complete files of Richmond papers of late dates. They contain little news beyond what has already been telegraphed, but the following extracts are of interest.

The Late Battles.

A LETTER FROM GEN. EARLY—HOW THE FREDERICKSBURGH HEIGHTS WERE LOST AND WON.

To the Editors of the Enquirer:

HAMILTON'S CROSSING, Monday, May 11, 1863.

GENTLEMEN: The statements of correspondents ignorant of the real facts, or writing in the interests of particular commands, too often form the basis of newspaper comments, and of public opinion in regard to military operations; and events follow so rapidly on the heels of each other that first impressions rarely give way to more correct views founded on authentic accounts. This consideration induces me to place on record a correction of one or two of the misrepresentations contained in communications to several of the Richmond papers from correspondents at Fredericksburgh, in regard to the capture of Mayre's Hill, on the 3d inst.

It is stated in these communications that BARKSDALE'S brigade was left without support to defend the heights in rear of Fredericksburgh, and a line of two miles in length. The fact is, that when informed at light on the morning of the 3d by Gen. BARKSDALE that the enemy had thrown a bridge across Fredericksburgh, I immediately sent HAYS' Louisiana brigade to his assistance, and Gen. WILCOX, with three regiments of his brigade, came down from above. This left only three brigades on the long and comparatively weak line from the heights in rear of Fredericksburgh to the mouth of the Massaponax to confront the heavy column of the enemy on this side at the mouth of Deep Run, while there were two brigades and three regiments of another to defend the strong and comparatively short line in rear of and above Fredericksburgh. BARKSDALE'S brigade occupied the position which was strongest in natural and artificial defences, and was better guarded by artillery than any other. There were no reserves for any part of the line, which extended over several miles, and military men will understand the difficulties of the position. Without meaning to cast censure on BARKSDALE'S brigade, even by implication, I will state that my division did not lose Marye's Hill, but one of my brigades, (GORDON'S, formerly LAWTON'S,) recaptured it before 9 o'clock on the next morning, and three of my brigades, (HAYS', HOKE'S and GORDON'S,) bore the brunt of the fight when the enemy was driven back across the river, BARKSDALE'S brigade and SMITH'S, of my own division, having been left to keep the enemy in check from the direction of Fredericksburgh. Having done all in my power to avert the disaster, and to arrest and retrieve it, I am willing to abide the judgment of the Commanding General upon my own conduct and that of my division. Respectfully,

J. A. EARLY, Maj.-Gen. P. A. C. S.

WHAT THE BATTLE SHOULD BE CALLED.

From the Richmond Dispatch.

We stated briefly a few days ago some moral and fanciful reasons why the great battle in which JACKSON fell should be called the BATTLE OF THE WILDERNESS. The matter of fact, however, is stronger than anything else in behalf of the name. The great battle was really fought in the Wilderness—a country of gravelly clay soil, and a black-jack growth, presenting in many places an almost impenetrable thicket. There were occasional small openings of cleared and cultivated fields, in which the enemy had his works for defence. The position was one of great strength and was very probably alluded to by HOOKER a short time since, as one he knew of, from which the whole Confederate army could not dislodge him. If he thought he knew such an one he would certainly go to it, and no doubt did, in preference to all others accessible to him. It was indeed a strong one. Yet JACKSON'S impetuous charge, in the very jaws of death, as it were, could not be resisted by the Yankees, and they were driven from it. The name "Wilderness" will perpetuate the nature of the position thus heroically stormed and carried—It will commemorate the last great fight of that hero of many bloody fields, whose last achievement was his greatest.

On the other hand, "Chancellorsville" is the name of a place with only one dwelling-house, situated several miles from the great fight of the two days' combat; and unsuggestive as it is at best, it could not therefore be applied with topographical truthfulness to designate the bloody struggle with the ruthless invader.

The Killing of Van Dorn by Dr. Peters.

Correspondence of the Richmond Inquirer:

CHATTANOOGA, Tuesday, May 12.

A gentleman just from Spring Hill, in Maury County, gives me some particulars in regard to the death of VAN DORN. The facts are singularly tragic, and in time of peace would create a national furore. The crowded condition of the great war canvass, however, will distract the public eye from a quiet domestic melo drama.

Since taking up his quarters at Spring Hill, VAN DORN has been upon terms of criminal intimacy with Mrs. Dr. PETERS. She was a Miss MCKISSACK—young, handsome and intelligent. Her family is one of the highest respectability and considerable wealth. Her husband has been one of the most esteemed citizens—an amiable man, a member of the State Senate and a heavy planter. A brother, Maj. PETERS, is Chief Quartermaster to Gen. POLK. The pair have been married (second marriage on the part of the gentleman) for about five years.

On the day of the occurrence, Dr. PETERS called upon VAN DORN and obtained a pass to go to Nashville. VAN DORN gave it readily, doubtless feeling glad to get rid of a disagreeable and dangerous incumbrance. They were alone together in an upper room, and it is supposed that PETER'S shot from back of VAN DORN'S head, which was split in twain by the bullet. The report was not heard, however, and PETERS mounted his horse, rode away, crossed the lines with the pass previously obtained, and entered Nashville. He has been, I learn, received with marks of distinguished welcome.

The body of VAN DORN was coffined and sent off for interment. Mrs. PETERS has returned to her own family.

These are the facts, hard and dry. Rumors of the conduct of VAN DORN, not only in this one instance, but in others near Columbia, have been prevalent for some time. Without doubt he has acted very badly. My informant tells me that he has degraded the cause and disgusted every one by his inattention to his duties and his constant devotion to the ladies, and that to the exclusion of all else. Wine and women have ruined him, as they have ruined many another brilliant, but reckless man. That VAN DORN was a man of daring genius there can be no doubt. Being handsome, with dark, flashing eyes, a magnificent moustache, a superb rider, showy address, quick-witted and graceful, he was also a man of sagacious foresight, keen, intelligent, but was wholly and thoroughly unreliable. He always sacrificed his business to his pleasure. He was never at his post when he ought to be. He was either tied to a woman's apron-strings or heated with wine.

Gen. Price.

Notes of Prize Decisions.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before Judge Betts.

EXAMINATION OF CARGO.

The United States vs. The bark Springbok and her cargo.—This was an application on behalf of the libelants to postpone the trial of the cause because of the absence of the counsel for captors, he being in attendance as a witness on the prize investigation now going on before the Solicitor of the Treasury, and also until certain packages named in two bills of lading, the contents of which are not stated in the invoices or any bill of particulars attached to the ship's papers, had been opened and examined. The claim, ants opposed the application because of great laches, as they claimed, on the part of the libelants, in making the applichtion for an examination.

Held by the Court—That if there had been any delinquency in the prosecution of the suit by the libelants the claimants had their remedy in the standing rules of the Court, by which they could have displaced the suit from the calendar, and compelled a restoration of vessel and cargo.

That the law authorizing a visitation and search of a vessel seized as prize is ample enough in its provisions and sufficiently distinct and efficient in its intent and policy to enable Prize Courts acting under it to render its action a wholesome and conservative agency, in preserving and promoting the common interests and purposes of the family of nations by whom it has been adopted.

Naturally, the first object of a visitation and search of a neutral vessel by a belligerent cruiser, is to examine the ship's documents and papers, her nationality, her port of departure and destination, her lading and the evidence of its character and ownership, so far as those particulars are evidenced by the papers on board, and if circumstances suspicious in character are discovered, indicating her employment to be in violation of good faith and honest neutrality, to seize the vessel and cargo and submit them to adjudication before a Prize Court. This right is conceded and exercised by all maritime nations in time of war, in respect to the transportation by sea of articles contraband of war.

That it will be found that the right of search may be made effective by an examination of the lading as well as the papers of the vessel, restrained always within limits of a fair and honorable reserve. (The Maria, 1 Rob. 340; the Anna Maria, 2 Wheat., 332.)

That the libelants are therefore entitled to an order of the Court allowing them to have, under the superintendence of proper officers of the Court, a view of that part of the lading which they have moved for.

For libelants, Mr. Smith; for claimants, Mr. Benedict, Mr. Edwards and Mr. Kurshedt.

Printing Paper from Europe.

From the Sunday Courier.

The paper manufacturers scouted the idea that printing paper could be imported so as to interfere with their monopoly, but the experiment has been made by the publishers of the DAILY TIMES with entire success. The ill-advised attempt to destroy the business upon which they depended, by fleecing their customers remorselessly, has proved a lamentable failure; and as it is proved that paper can be imported at as cheap rates as it can be purchased here, the chances of a thrifty rivalry, summoned into existence by their own greed, is promisingly ilvely; and it may be, that instead of working on two-thirds time, as these conspirators propose to do, the newspaper publisher will grant them a session of rest, until they are brought to their senses.

From the Chicago Tribune.

A copy of the NEW-YORK TIMES comes to us printed on Belgian paper, purchased in Europe at 7½ cents, when an article of like quality was held by the paper monopolists in New-York at 24 cents per pound. The importation made by the TIMES was in self-defence, and its example will be generally imitated by the journals of large circulation, if the attempt of the monopolists to still further put up prices is persisted in. We congratulate the TIMES on the success of its experiment.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The report of the capture of Jackson, the capital of Mississippi, by Gen. Grant, is fully confirmed this morning. A dispatch from Gen. Hurlbut to the War Department, embodies intelligence from the Vicksburgh and Jackson papers of the 14th, giving accounts of the defeat of the rebel Gen. Griggs at Raymond and Mississippi Spring, and the later telegram from Canton announces that Jackson had been taken from the east, probably by a cavalry force of Gen. Grant's command. The battle at Raymond was fought on Tuesday, the 12th. The rebel loss in that engagement is admitted to be 700. The next day Griggs was reinforced by Gen. Walker, of Georgia, was attacked at Mississippi Spring, and on Thursday he was driven toward Jackson. The rebel Gen. Joseph E. Johnston is said to have arrived at Jackson on the day previous to its capture, and to have gone out on the railroad toward Vicksburgh with four brigades. It is also said that Gen. Grant had struck the railroad at Edwards' Station—thus probably placing Johnston between two bodies of National troops.

The Petersburgh (Va.) Express finds very little encouragement for the rebel cause in the present aspect of affairs in the vicinity of Vicksburgh. It regards it as by no means flattering. "After having had a year's time to perfect all the defences," it says, "it appears that we are now set upon in the very quarter where we had least expected." The capture of Jackson by Gen. Grant will not be likely to afford the Express much ground for consolation.

Further measures of a retaliatory character have been passed through the rebel Congress. Resolutions have been adopted providing that every commissioned officer who shall command negroes for military service against the Confederate States, shall, when captured, be put to death; and the negroes, when captured, shall be delivered to the State authorities, to be dealt with according to their laws. This is in accordance with a proposition some time ago submitted to the rebel Congress, when the plan of arming the negroes was first inaugurated by the National authorities.

The official statement of the killed and wounded in the Chancellorsville battles is as follows:

Killed—Officers	154
Enlisted men	1,358
Wounded—Officers	624
Enlisted men	8,894
Total	11,030

The verified returns of the missing will not exceed 2,500.

The United States steamer Conway, Capt. Bachner, which arrived yesterday morning from Port Royal, S. C., reports that on the 14th, at 2 P. M., when off Charleston, she heard heavy firing in the harbor; which continued until 5 P. M. Capt. Bachner believes that it was the iron-clads attacking the batteries on Morris Island. The purser of the Conway states that, although no public announcement had been made at Port Royal when the steamer left that place, that an attack was imminent on Charleston, it was generally known that everything, so far as the fleet was concerned, was in readiness to make another effort to capture the city.

It is reported that the rebels made a dash between Summerville and Gauley in the Kanahwa Valley, on Wednesday last, capturing one company of the Second Virginia cavalry, together with a portion of two companies of infantry. It is also reported that they captured a train of forty wagons, and one hundred and sixty-eight mules. The Ninety-first Ohio regiment have fallen back to Charleston. The rebels are reported to be 1,600 strong, under Gen. Jones.

Gen. Sherman has ordered that all licensed places of amusement in New-Orleans be under the supervisory management of the Provost-Marshal-General of the Department of the Gulf. A programme of all entertainments will be submitted to and approved by him, before they are announced to the public, and no departure from the programme, so approved by him, will be permitted under any circumstances. He has also ordered that all programmes shall be interspersed with appropriate national airs. A guard will be in attendance at all such entertainments, under the orders of the Provost-Marshal's Department, and all persons who disturb the entertainments, as laid down in the programme, will be promptly arrested, removed from the place, and punished according to the nature of the offence.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Union-square meeting, last enemy, for the purpose of sympathizing with Mr. Vallandigham and denouncing his recent arrest, trial and imprisonment, was attended by about three thousand persons, Most of the distinguished gentlemen announced to speak, excused themselves for non-attendance. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the arrest, and all trials by military commissions, as unconstitutional. Addresses were made by J. A. McMasters, Judge McCunn, Eli P. Norton, Edmon Blankman, C. G. Gunther, John Mullaly, D. Fuch, and others.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen yesterday, a communication was received from the City Inspector indorsing a letter sent to him by Mr. Samuel Donaldson, the assignee of the Hackley contract, stating his readiness to carry out the contract on ais part, as soon as the City shall pay him the arrearages he claims. Referred. A resolution was adopted directing the Committee on National Affairs to report the draft of an ordinance for the further issue of stock to replenish the Soldiers' Family Aid Fund, which is nearly exhausted. On the question of adopting the ordinance authorizing an issue of stock for $1,950,000, to pay for the land for and costs of extending Central Park, in pursuance of an act of the Legislature and a judgment of the Supreme Court against the City, there was some discussion. The paper had been referred at one meeting, and the Committee were discharged from further consideration of it at the next meeting. Messrs. Ottiwell, Hardy and Froment were in favor of a recommitment, thinking the subject should be investigated and reported upon. Mr. Hardy suggested that the judgment should be appealed from, and carried up to the Court of Appeals even, if the reputed frauds in connection with the matter should be found to exist. A motion to recommit was lost by 8 to 8. The ordinance was then adopted by 12 to 4. The bills for receiving the First, Fourth and Fifth regiments of Volunteers, and for the burial Col. Ringgold, amounting to about $14,000, were ordered to be paid, and a resolution was adopted, limiting the expenses of receiving regiments in future to $2,500 each. Adjourned to 5 P. M. on Thursday.

At the meeting of the Board of Councilmen, a message was received from the Mayor, vetoing the resolution to increase the salary of the Public Administrator, (Dr. Bradford,) from $1,250 to $5,000 per annum. The Mayor says, that although the present salary was fixed in 1815, the fees of the office have so largely increased since that time, that an increase of the salary is unnecessary. The resolutions from the other Board, empowering the City Inspector to clean the streets and sue the sureties of the Hackley contract for the expense of the work, and directing the Comptroller to advance the men their pay from the street-cleaning fund, pending the suit, were referred. Adjourned to five o'clock P. M., on Thursday.

The official report of the City Inspector shows that the number of deaths in the City and County of New-York, for the week ending May 18, was 491. Of these, 124 were men, 109 women, 132 boys, 126 girls; 233 were adults, 258 children, 256 males, 235 females; colored persons, 12. Of these deaths 71 were from consumption, 84 from infantile diseases, 15 from diphtheria, 19 from scarlet fever, 10 from typhoid fever, 17 from dropsy in the head, 17 from inflammation of the bowels, 20 from inflammation of the brain, 37 from inflammation of the lungs. The number of deaths in the public institutions was 74. The number of interments in the Potter's Field, 61. The total number of deaths this week was 69 more than during the week ending May 11.

Yesterday the New-York Soldiers' Depot was formally opened at Nos. 50 and 52 Howard-street. The buildings are admirably arranged. Large dining, bathing and reading rooms are supplied, and every convenience desirable for the comfort of our wounded heroes provided.

A meeting of the Cordwainers' Association was held at the Volks Garden, yesterday, at which some 3,000 journeymen were present. Reports favorable were received from the Executive Committee, and speeches urging harmony of action were made, while the desirability of advanced wages was clearly proven.

In the Court of Sessions yesterday, before Judge McCunn, Ezekiel Williams, indicted for a felonious assault upon Wm. J. Fischer, was convicted of assault and battery, and remanded for sentence. The Grand Jury of this Court was discharged for the term, there being another Grand Jury in Session in the Oyer and Terminer.

The increased advance on the Stock Exchange yesterday was as much as 5@10 ₩ cent. on some of the Railway Shares, and 2½@5 ₩ cent. on the 6 ₩ cents of Missouri and Tennessee. The sales of United States 6 ₩ cents amounted to $1,328,850. The general market left off firm. The price of Gold Coin steady at 149¾@150; Exchange, 165 ₩ cent. Money active among the Stock Brokers at 6 ₩ cent.

Breadstuffs were much lower, yesterday, and heavy sales and shipments of Grain were reported. Provisions were not very brisk; Pork was cheaper. A moderate business was transacted in Groceries, Hops, Fish, Wool and Whisky. Oils were in more demand, and Petroleum was decidedly higher. Tallow was selling freely. Other branches of trade exhibited no remarkable alteration.

The cattle markets are lightly supplied with animals this week, owing to a delay of the stock trains over the Erie Road, keeping back some 800 beeves. About 3,000 were on sale at Allerton's, and prices were advanced ½c.@¼c. ₩ lb. Most of the really good cattle went off rapidly, at 12c.@12½c. ₩ lb., net weight; some of the best brought 13c., and the majority of the stock was sold before night. A few lots are expected to arrive to-day, but the bulk of the delayed cattle will scarcely reach here before Wednesday or Thursday.

Perils of a Divided Command.

It has been rumored, for a few days, both that Gen. Halleck is about to take the field in person, and that he has been paying visits to the camp and overruling certain plans of Hooker's; and nevertheless we are assured he has not the least intention of superseding Hooker. He is merely to supplement him. As, if this be true, it is a matter which seriously affects the future of the army of the Potomac, and, perhaps, the result of the war itself, we think the public cannot protest too earnestly against anything which promises to inflict upon the most important portion of our whole force the evils of divided command.

The Army of the Potomac is probably already one of the most unfortunate armies that ever took the field, not through any fault of its own, but through the misfortunes of those who have had charge of it. It was organized by a man who would not fight, and it then fell into the hands of a man who was willing to fight, but did not know how; and it may be that it is now under the leadership of a man who is as unfitted for his position, as either of the other two. But there can be no greater mistake than to suppose that two Generals, let them both be ever so good, are an improvement upon one, let him be ever so bad. Secrecy, energy, decision and rapidity, both of conception and execution, are so essential to military success, that every organization which fails to secure them, is worse than useless, let its other virtues be what they may; and no organization can possibly secure them which has two heads. If this were a matter of strategy or of tactics, we might be disposed to let it pass in silence. But no knowledge of either strategy or tactics is necessary to enable one to form one's judgment about it. A very ordinary share of knowledge of human nature, and a very slight knowledge of history, is all that is wanted to enable anybody who chooses to think about it, to pronounce with certainty that, whether Gen. Hooker be either able or incompetent, if Gen. Halleck goes down to advise him, with the power of overruling him, the result of the coming campaign in Virginia will be disastrous, and only disastrous.

We know, as a matter of history, that no such arrangement as this has ever resulted in any other way, when put into operation against an enemy led by a single mind. It is but a repetition of the dealings of the Aulic Council with the Austrian Generals, which ended in bringing the Austrian Empire to the verge of destruction. And we also know, that in work like the command of an army, which consists in great part in meeting emergies impossible to foresee, and which calls in so high a degree for the free and untrammeled play of every one of the faculties, one man cannot undertake to carry out another man's ideas with a chance of success. He who conceives the plan of a battle, or of a campaign, is the person who must execute it. It is impossible that any one else can carry it out with the necessary zeal, faith and knowledge. If the President or his advisers have reached the conclusion from anything that has come to their knowledge, that Hooker is not fit for his position, by all means let him be removed. We have not a word to say against it. We have always held that, in this matter of selecting a General for the army, the President is supreme judge of the man to be chosen; and we have always held that the attempts made by newspapers and politicians, to control or overrule him were as silly as they were impertinent. But until Hooker is removed he ought to be the real and sole General of the army in the field. If Gen. Halleck's presence is considered necessary at his headquarters, as a controlling counsellor, this is proof that Hooker is considered incompetent, and that Halleck is the man for his place, and he ought accordingly to be put into it. If not, the President is bound by every possible consideration to retain him in Washington, and to insist upon his leaving Hooker master of his own movements.

There is still another side to this matter, about which the public has its word to say. When Grant's army fails, we know that Grant is responsible; when Rosecrans' army fails, we know that Rosecrans is responsible; but when the Army of the Potomac comes to grief, we never know exactly to whom to look for the cause of the catastrophe. There always is some doubt whether the General in command has not been thwarted, or hindered or confused by the interference of somebody else, either the President, or the Secretary of War, or the General-in-Chief. On most occasions, unquestionably these doubts have had no foundation in fact; but without some foundation sometimes, they would not exist, and we have a right to demand that all occasion for them shall cease and that nothing shall be done to increase them. When a battle is lost and ten or fifteen thousand men killed or disabled, it is intolerable that in a free country the people should not be able to fix at once upon the man whose blundering, or stupidity, or misconduct has wrought this immense mischief. It does not do to await the slow action of Committees of Congress, in order to discover him. We ought to have his name, beyond all doubt or question, the minute the deed is done. This we cannot have as long as there is the shadow of uncertainty as to the nature and extent of the powers of the General in the field. History and experience both teach us that these powers should be absolute, and it is of the essence of constitutional government that the people should know whether they are or are not, in order that it may be able to deal out rigid justice to those who manage or mismanage its affairs.

Gov. Seymour's Letter.

Gov. Seymour closes his letter to the Vallandigham meeting in Albany with an extraordinary sentiment. He says:

"The people of this country now wait with the deepest anxiety the decisions of the Administration upon these acts. Having given it a generous support in the conduct of the war, we pause to see what kind of Government it is for which we are asked to pour out our blood and our treasure. The action of the Administration will determine, in the minds of more than one-half of the people of the loyal States whether this war is waged to put down rebellion at the South, or destroy free institutions at the North. We look for its decision with most solemn solicitude."

If this mean anything, it means that if the Administration decides to sustain the acts of Gen. Burnside, and the judgment of the Military Court, more than one-half of the people of the Loyal States will go for abandoning the war; for of course they cannot and will not sustain a war waged to "destroy free institutions at the North."

Now, so far as regards Governor Seymour himself, he can pledge himself to any line of conduct he pleases. But he has no right to pledge a man besides. It is ineffable presumption in him to assert that "more than one half of the people of the loyal States" will shape their opinion about the war on what is done by the Administration at Washington. The idea is monstrous. It puts it into the power of the Administration to establish the character of the war, and to decide its fate. The duty of the loyal men to put down the rebellion is all made dependent upon the wisdom or the folly, the faithfulness or the unfaithfulness, of the Administration at Washington. Were the arrest of Vallandigham ten times the flagrant wrong his best friends claim it to be, it would not be a tenth part so abominable as this doctrine.

This war is a war to save the nation. It is a war not only for ourselves, but for our children to the latest generation. It involves interests of almost infinite magnitude. The men in power at Washington are but dust in the balance when weighed against the destinies at stake. To whatever side they may shift, it is nothing in its bearings upon the obligations of the war. If the President usurps, impeach him, as the Constitution provides, by the House of Representatives, and try him by the Senate. If you do not choose to do that, bear with him for the twenty-one months he will remain in office, or seek to change his conduct by arraying against him the force of public opinion. Take any of these parts that you please, if you think the President wrong. But if you are a sane man, don't be guilty of the madness, if you are a loyal man don't be guilty of the faithlessness, of saying that if this creature of a day does this, or fails to do that, the rebellion shall have its way and the nation go down. You might as well say that if the priest at the altar does not rightly perform his duties, the Ark of the Covenant shall be broken; and that if the ministers of the Church go astray, religion itself shall be abjured.

We have before said that if Mr. Vallandigham was really guilty of the specifications made against him, he had, in our opinion, committed a military offence, for which he deserved to be tried by a military tribunal in a department governed by military law. His friends say that the specifications were false. On that point we have never expressed an opinion, for we have had no reliable means of judging. The testimony upon the subject has only been very imperfectly published. But the question of Mr. Vallandigham's guilt or innocence, or the question whether he ought to have been tried by a military or civil tribunal, dwindles into insignificance before the claim here set up that the right or the wrong of the Administration in this matter is to determine our duty to support or abandon the war. Mr. Vallandigham may deserve to go to prison or not, Mr. Lincoln may deserve to go to prison or not, but no question of this kind has the remotest bearing upon our own obligations to help put down this rebellion.

The criterion of duty which Gov. Seymour has sent to the Vallandigham sympathisers in Albany, is the lowest manifestation we have ever seen of the low patriotism of certain classes of politicians. We do not believe that he bethought himself of the real import of his words, when he penned the closing sentences of that letter. Other language which he has used has justified the belief that he was for waging the war to the last extremity, rather than give way to the Confederacy. This language, literally construed, recants it all, and puts him in the category of conditional Union men. For the sake of his honorable name, and of the office he holds, we trust that his sober second thought will convince him of his mistake. If it does not, we have simply to say that Horatio Seymour's conceptions of duty as Governor matters just as little to us—so far as regards our relations to the rebels—as Abraham Lincoln's conceptions of duty as President. Whatever either of them may think, or say, or do, we know but one line of policy—and that is to prosecute the war against the rebellion to its crushing consummation, trusting the people to rectify in due time at the ballot-box all wrongs of its public servants, whether at State capitals or the National capital.

The Plot Thickening at Vicksburgh.

We have reports this morning from three widely apart points—Mobile, Chattanooga and Memphis—that Gen. Grant's forces have captured Jackson, the Capital of Mississippi, lying 45 miles in the rear and directly east of Vicksburgh. All these reports come from rebel sources; and, we suppose, that under the circumstances, with such a weight of testimony, the rebels ought to be believed. Gen. Hurlbut, in transmitting one of the dispatches, adds to it a surmise of his own, that Jackson was captured by a cavalry movement from the east; but both of the other rebel telegrams assert that it was taken after a hard day's fighting—that from Mobile asserting that "we (the rebels) fought all day, but could not hold the city."

Gen. Grant has fought four quite considerable fights since the opening of the month of May, and he has been successful in each and all of them. The first of them was on the 1st day of the month, at Port Gibson, when Grant defeated and routed 11,000 rebels. The next was on the 3d—the naval battle at Grand Gulf, one of the strongest positions on the Mississippi, which was captured. The third fight was on the 11th, at Raymond, 25 miles east of Vicksburgh, on the railroad to Jackson, in which the rebels say they had 5,000 men and retreated; and the fourth fight was on the 14th, for the possession of Jackson, though it seems to have been fought a few miles west of that city, at Mississippi Springs; and the rebel force engaged was that previously defeated on the 11th, which had been reinforced with infantry and artillery. Grant must have been successful there also, as, according to the rebels, immediately after it he occupied Jackson. This brisk and successful work brings us up to Thursday night last, after which we know nothing of Grant's operations.

The rebels anticipate that the next and great battle will be at Big Black Station, or at the railroad bridge which crosses the Big Black River, twelve miles in the rear of Vicksburgh, from which it is evident they expect that Gen. Grant will march his army directly toward the rear of the great rebel stronghold. Perhaps they are correct, and perchance they are not.

If Gen. Grant really holds Jackson in force, he commands the only line of railroad leaving Vicksburgh, while his military and naval force below, at the mouth of the Big Black—his naval force above in the Yazoo, and his naval force in front in the Mississippi—these different forces may be said to completely envelop and cut off Vicksburgh. If Grant concentrates his army at Jackson, the rebels will be compelled to come out and offer him battle. They must soon be absolutely compelled to attempt to cut their way through his lines, whether he give them battle or not.

We learn that Gen. Joseph E. Johnson has succeeded in making his way into Vicksburgh, and has succeeded in carrying in with him a reinforcement of several rebel brigades. Whichever way Grant approaches, they have evidently determined to contest the position with all their might. The next movement of Gen. Grant will decide the nature of the battle, if it does not decide the battle itself.

Sale of Pictures.

In the collection of pictures now exhibiting at the Old Dusseldorf Gallery, No. 548 Broadway, are many rare and interesting pictures by artists whose works have hitherto been only known to travelers abroad, and in point of beauty and variety the walls of this establishment at present bear an assemblage of objects of art more than usually worthy of attention. Almost every existing school of painting is represented by one or more highly important pictures. Lutze's "Washington Crossing the Delaware," the second and smaller picture by him of this subject, is there, and by artists of Holland, Dusseldorf, Belgium, England and France there is enough to satisfy every variety of taste. The collection is the result of years of industrious travel, combined with a critical discrimination and an ample outlay of means by a gentleman well and favorably known in the art word for thirty years past. We recommend lovers of the fine arts to visit the collection, which will remain open free to visitors until Thursday evening next. There are many things in the gallery well worthy of an attentive study, and, as a whole, the assemblage of pictures is an excellent one. There is also included in this sale the entire collection of marble statuary belonging to one of our well-known citizens.

A Pleasant Trip.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Senator Pomeroy, with a number of other invited guests, including the "Hutchinsons," visited Fort Schuyler, yesterday. The "Hutchinsons" sung, Mr. Beecher talked, the soldiers cheered, and all concerned enjoyed themselves. Dr. Roberts Bartholow, the surgeon in charge, escorted the party through the Hospital, and showed them every attention.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

A New Project of Mediation—What is Thought of the Charleston Fight—Military Reviews—The French Artillery Officers in America—A Rage for Duels, &c., &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Paris, Friday, May 1, 1863.

It is said, within the last few days, that the Cabinets of Paris and London have again commenced negotiations on the subject of a mediation in America, but this time on a new basis of operations. They are first to commence with the Confederates, who will be asked, as a preliminary step, to guarantee the gradual emancipation of Slavery, and this guarantee once secured, it is thought the North will be willing to accept a separation. I have not been able to ascertain what foundation there is for this report.

The papers say but little about the affair at Charleston., confining themselves mostly to an abridged account of the fight, copied from the New-York papers. The affair would scarcely be noticed, but for the noise they make about it in England. It is none the less occupying the attention of scientific men; but here, as in England, they seem to think that their cuirassed vessels would stand fire better than those which attempted to enter Charleston harbor. This, however, is probably a great mistake, for the walls of the cuirassed ships of France and England are no thicker, nor better built, than are those of the Monitors, and no less likely to resist the improved artillery—so that France and England, like ourselves and everybody else, must commence to look about again for something better.

The Emperor has been reviewing the Imperial Guard and the Army of Paris, but they were only the usual semi-annual reviews of the arms in this military arrondissement, and had no significance whatever. At the review of Tuesday last, it was noticed that two regiments of Dragoons no longer carried their guns as formerly, swung in bandoulières over the back, but carried them on their boots in the same way as some of the regiments of cavalry carry their muskets. Only the dragoons carried the breech of the gun on the boot with the muzzle passed under the right arm, while in those regiments of cavalry which carry a gun the breech is carried in the air and the muzzle on the foot. But this change is only for parade service; in active service, even for reviews, in which there are sham battles, the soldier will be obliged to change his gun to the back.

The first reports of the artillery officers which the French Government has sent to the United States to follow the war and take note on everything valuable which comes under their observation, are said to be highly favorable to American inventive genius. In many things, these officers admit, the American artillery service is far in advance of that of France. The Parrott gun has been made the subject of special study, and it is believed, is reported upon in the highest terms. As for bullet-moulds, cannon and musket cartouches, powder, and the means of measuring the projectile force of different powders, they are far behind us; and the French Government has not only bought the patent of Dr. Dorremus' gunpowder, but has secured, through its agents in America, specimens and descriptions of the other articles mentioned, and instructions for their manufacture. The Emperor has been paying a good deal of attention lately to improvements in artillery, and he is to make a visit in a few days to Cherbourgh, to inspect a new cuirass for ships.

Notwithstanding the charming sunshine of these last two months there seems to exist a sort of "atmospheric constitution" which disturbs the equanimity of people's tempers, for never in these later times have we had such a rage for duels. As usual these hostile meetings occur mostly in the world of journalism and more particularly among the critics and literary writers. Last week there were three duels among gentlemen of this class, of which one of the parties in each affair belonged to the corps of writers for the Figaro. It is said, in a figurative way, that the editor of this paper requires of each new contributor who presents himself, a certificate of two years' apprenticeship in the use of the death-dealing sword and pistol, and the obligation never to refuse to fight when called upon. For two or three years it has been the habit among the critics generally to ridicule one of their number—M. Sarcey, of the Opinion Nationale—and he was thus made the butt of the profession, exactly because he would not fight. But he has at last been forced out by M. Aurelian Scholl, of the Figaro, and, once out, seems to have conducted himself with great bravery. The parties went to Belgium to fight, which seemed to indicate that they intended to make a serious affair of it. They fought with the small-sword, and after three or four rounds, lasting more than a quarter of an hour, the Belgian gen d'armerié suddenly appeared, and ordered the combatants to leave the Belgian territory. They then returned to Paris and went in the other direction, across the frontier into Baden-Baden. The fight terminated with a wound of no great importance, received by M. Sarcey. Lately a young theatrical critic named Koning, challenged successively two leading actors, Messrs. Castellano and Brindeau, both of whom refused to fight him because he was yet under twenty-one years of age. Last week, however, M. Koning reached his majority, and at once sent a challenge to M. Lafont, of the Figaro, for having ridiculed him in his paper about his unsuccessful attempts in obtaining a duel. The parties fought with swords, and after a few vigorous passes, M. de Villemessant, who was on the ground for M. Lafont, placed his sword between those of the combatants, and raising them in the air, declared that for so slight an offence sufficient risk had been incurred, and that the duel must stop, M. Lafont then good naturedly gave young Koning his hand and said to him, "You are a brave boy, and whenever you have another affair on your hands and want a second come to me." M. Erlanger, the banker who negotiated the Confederate Loan, has also just had a very hard-fought affair with another banker, M. Cordier, in which the latter received a serious but not mortal wound. The affair originated in an incident of private life, and has been hanging fire for some weeks, because, it is said, M. Erlanger desired first to finish the negotiation in regard to the loan in question. There has also just been a duel between two Hungarian noblemen residing in Paris, which proved fatal to one of the parties.

M. Michael Chevallier brings from the press to-morrow a serious work entitled Mexico, Ancient and Modern. M. Chevallier, as you know, has been one of the most influential agents in inaugurating and pushing on the Mexican expedition, and he is one of those who not only favors the idea of reorganizing the Latin races in America and pitting them against the Anglo-American race, but who urges the policy of France acquiring the right of working the mines of Mexico. I shall send you a copy of that important work for review.

A French publisher has just brought out a translation of such of Edgar A. Poe's writings as were not included in the first series translated three years ago. All of Poe's writings are much esteemed in this country, and the French reproach the Americans for not having esteemed Poe at his proper value.

The fast day appointed by the President of the United States, was duly observed here in the American Chapel, on which occaion our much esteemed pastor, Rev. Dr. McClintock, delivered a most interesting sermon. Malakoff.

The Defence of Washington—Second Note from Gen Wadsworth.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I regret to have to trouble you again to correct the misapprehension which seems to exist as to the troops assigned to the defence of Washington, in March and April, 1862. The inclosed article, from the New-York World, impeaching my veracity, reached me the day before I left my command, on a short leave of absence, and as I passed through Washington, I procured copies of the monthly returns of the troops under my command at that time. The following is a condensed statement of the return for the 31st March, 1862, showing the troops in and about Washington, under my command:

First New-Jersey cavalry	783
Fifth United States cavalry (part of a company)	32
Fourth Pennsylvania cavalry	404
ARTILLERY.
Battery C and K, First New-York; (light;) 2 batteries Rocket battalion; Battery L, Second New-York artillery	788
Second New-York artillery	932
Third battalion New-York artillery	352
Fourth New-York artillery	592
11th and 12th batteries New-York artillery	259
Dickinson Light artillery	143
112th Pennsylvania Volunteer artillery	804
14th Massachusetts Volunteer artillery	1,326
1st Wisconsin artillery	70
Total	5,228
INFANTRY.

26th, 31st, 59th, 76th, 86th, 94th, 95th, 99th, 101st, 102d, 104th New-York Volunteers; 10th New-Jersey Volunteers; 26th, 56th, 88th, 91st, 99th, 107th Pennsylvania Volunteers; 12th Virginia Volunteers, (1 company;) 2d District Columbia Volunteers.—Aggregate infantry, 13,146.

Total of all arms present for duty, 19,391.

As to a portion of the cavalry and artillery above enumerated, I was not at the time sure that it was intended for my command, and some of it was ordered away in a few days; but I embrace it in this statement, as it was within my command at that time. In my return to the Secretary of War, on the 2d April, I stated the number at 19,025. At the end of April, the returns show a force of 19,475. I had not time to examine the daily returns. They, of course, fluctuated. It was not the numerical strength of my command that I complained of—many of the regiments were new—some of them had just reached Washington and received their arms. Others had elements of weakness and disorganization within themselves which it is impossible to refer to here—such as incompetent officers, officers under arrest, etc. As I stated in my former communication to you, Senator Chandler's language, that I had no "guns on wheels," was incorrect—I had no light artillery mounted and available for service.

From this force I was ordered by Gen. McClellan to detail four regiments, good ones, two to Richardson's division, one to Heintzelman's old division, and one to Hooker's division. I was further ordered by him to send four thousand men to Manassas and Warrenton. It had been previously understood that Banks was to occupy that point. The First Connecticut heavy artillery garrisoning the forts in front of and above Alexandria, and the Third New-York artillery (heavy) garrisoning the forts opposite Georgetown, had just been detached from my command. The Fourteenth Massachusetts artillery was not assigned to me to replace any of these regiments, as it was previously under my command, but it was ordered by me to garrison part of the works evacuated by the First Connecticut. The Ninety-seventh New-York, a new regiment, was ordered to Fort Corcoran and to the works opposite Georgetown. Gen. Banks was, at the date of my report, in the Valley of the Shenandoah, and the duty assigned to him was to occupy it and guard the approach through it to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Two ranges of mountains were between him and Washington, although one light brigade of his (Abercrombie's) was, I believe, on this side of the Bull Run Mountains; two or three regiments of this command came to Washington very soon after to be discharged, being twelve months' volunteers from Indiana. Gen. Dix had a small force at Baltimore, two light regiments guarding the railroad thence to Washington, and one at Annapolis, guarding the depot there. With these exceptions all the troops in Maryland south of Baltimore were under my command, and embraced in my statement, which shows, so far as I know, all the troops in or about Washington assigned to or available for its defence. What troops Gen. McClellan referred to in his statement before the McDowell Court of Inquiry, as assigned to defend Washington, other than those above referred to, I have no means of knowing, or even conjecturing. Your obedient servant,

Jas. S. Wadsworth, Brig.-Gen.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mrs. Jane English's experiment at Laura Keene's Theatre has shared the fate of the Opera. The lieges watch it with apathy, and the critics with regret. As a consequence, the benches are temptingly and luxuriously vacant. To account for this state of things we must remember, first, that Laura Keene's has ceased to be a popular theatre, and secondly, that Mrs. English is a stranger, whose claims to the honors of Metropolitan management have not yet been recognized. Our people, in the matter of amusements, are singularly jealous of outsiders. They view with ill-concealed annoyance the occasional raids of hardy enthusiastic provincials. It is seldom that the invaders get off with bag and baggage. We know not the extent of Mrs. English's ambition, but for a couple of months at least she proposes to give us a species of entertainment based on the Ravel model, with variations that seem to have been suggested by the circus. The performances on the opening night were not of a very promising character, but they have improved since. We begin to hope that Mrs. English may be successful. A novel entertainment on Broadway would indeed be a luxury to a craving community. Was there ever a city in the world with a million inhabitants so badly supplied with places of amusement as is New-York? In reality we have but one theatre on the west side of the town—Wallack's; all the other places being mere show rooms and platforms for travelling "stars" who revolve in their little orbits punctually enough, but without adding an inch to the space traversed. If it were not for a constant influx of healthy foreigners and of utterly indestructable natives from the East, the proud metropolis of the New World would speedily be depopulated and reduced to a howling wilderness by the fatal agony of its amusements, by the dreadful pressure of its tragedians, by the evil influence of the "stars." Without these robust classes to throw into the arena, we should be roared into fits and tore into pieces by the two-legged furies who there pant and perform. But providential as is this provision, there is an inconvenience about it. The robust classes like their entertainment a little savage, and they have been gratified with a vengeance. The noises of a five-act play are as varied and appalling as those that issue from a menagerie. The secret of our well wishes for Mrs. English and her success are thus revealed. Her artists do not speak and cannot howl. Moreover they must, as a rule, understand something of their profession, or they will flounder to the stage a mass of bruised and broken humanity—surely punished, indeed, for their pretence. And here is an anomaly that the philosophic mind at once detects in the two professions of tight-rope dancer and tragedian. The one, by a false step, may injure himself grievously, but with true art instinct, to hide all that is painful from the public, he will deliver a hop, skip and jump, and wobble playfully off the stage, to be conveyed, mayhap, by tender hands to the nearest hospital. Not a complaint escapes his lips; his face is wreathed in smiles, even if his body be racked with pain. The other one—he who chalks his feet for tragedy, and goes on with Shakespeare as a long pole—howls, yells, and writhes steadily for three hours, although there is not a bone in his body broken, and he knows that when it is all over there will be cakes and ale for him at home. For a cheerful view of life, it is always necessary to go to those who are in the greatest danger of losing it. And this brings us back to Laura Keene's Theatre, where, in addition to two remarkable performers on the tight-rope—Mlle. Rositaand Alexander Zanfretta—the lady manager has also provided us with a couple of wonderful gymnasts—Prof. Donette and Young America—and an Italian singer—Signor Montenare—who gives buffo scenes very acceptably, and a couple of dancers and a German violinist, who can imitate every thing except music, and, finally, a ballet pantomimic company. Of this latter we can only say, that it has improved in the interval between Monday and Saturday. The quick precision, and brief but intelligible dumb show of the Ravels, were not attained in a day. Mrs. English's pantomimists are profuse. They deliver an oration where they should only utter an exclamation; they are for ever scrambling about the stage; and stamp a great deal more than is good for them. An exception should however be made in favor of Señor Caron, a comic artist of talent, who will, we think, improve on acquaintance. In the "Maison Rouge" he was not always funny, although he tried to be so, but in the bed-room scene, and in the final opportunity of the piece, he was excellent. Let us add that there is an excellent orchestra, and repeat that we hope Mrs. English will succeed. Anything as a relief to the necessity of going to a "star" theatre will be acceptable. Above all things we want variety, and when that is provided there will be room for a dozen more theatres in New-York. To-night, a prodigy, named Angelo, makes his first appearance, and will "perform his Icarean feat on the cloud swing." We hope that the poor child may not meet with the fate of Icarus.

On Monday—a week from yester-day—Mme. Vestvali commences her season of English opera at the Winter Garden, playing Gluck's "Orpheus," a work not strictly English—but as English as a good many plays. Orpheus was a well-looking as well as a tuneful youth, and it is related of him that he appeased the fury of wild beasts with his lyre. Signora Vestvali will, we are sure, be a worthy representative of the hero, and not only charm the multitude but soften the critics. For the rest we learn that new scenery and dresses have been prepared, and know that Mr. Anschutz is devoting much time and attention to the rehearsals. So "Orphé:" let it be,—only we are sorry it is not "Orphée and Eufer."

The final performance at the Academy, last evening, attracted a brilliant audience—the opera being "Ione." When this opera was first given, we predicted that it would speedily become a favorite with our public, but we certainly had no idea that it would at once become popular as it has done. It is now the best drawing work in the repertoire, and, being admirably cast in all respects, could—if any reliance was to be placed on the weather—be repeated for a week with a good result. As it is, it now finds its way to the shelf until next season. All the artists, last evening, were in superb voice. The performance was one of the best we have had at the Academy of Music, and brings Mr. Maretzek's second season to an end with great éclat. On Saturday, an extra Matinée will be given for the benefit of Signor Bellini, when "Ione" will be again repeated.

To-night, at the Academy of Music, Mr. Robert Goldbeck will give his grand vocal and instrumental concert, assisted by a grand orchestra of seventy-five performers, and, as soloists, by Mme. Bertbe, Johannsen, Mr. S. B. Mills, Mr. Theodor Thomas and Mr. Henry C. Timm.

At Irving Hall, Mr. Gottschalk will give the second concert of his final series, assisted by first-rate talent.

The New-York Cadets.—A youthful military organization, comprising the scions of the —— of New-York, will give a private exhibition of their friends and patrons at the Academy of Music, next Saturday evening, May 23, when a military and spectacular drama will be presented by them, (written expressly for the occasion,) in the course of which their various drills and exercises will be introduced. The object they have in view is the building of a new armory for their own use.

DEPARTURE OF THE STEAM-FRIGATE TICONDEROGA.

The U. S steam-frigate Ticonderoga sailed from the Lower Bay at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, making full 14 miles an hour on her trip out of the harbor, which demonstrated the final success of her machinery. This splendid ship, after all the difficulties which attended her construction, is thus bound out on her first cruise, a match for the Alabama, or any other pirate on the seas. The following is a list of her officers:

John DeCamp, Captain; Bushner B. Taylor, Lieutenant Commander; Fred. A. Smith, Lieutenant; H. N. Denniston, Paymaster; Stuart Kenneuy, Surgeon; A. E. Hunter, Acting Master; C. F. R. Mappenhaus, Acting Ensign; E. T. Strong, John B. Means, Thomas G. Hale, John H. Shore, Acting Master's Mates; Henry E. Barnes, Boatswain; Jos. Smith, Gunner; Thomas J. Jones, Chief Engineer; Dan. C. Chester, First Assistant Engineer; H. C. McIlvaine, F. E. Bown, Second Assistant Engineers; Geo. A. Baker, John C. Kafer, W. J. Powers, R. E. Halsey, Third Assistant Engineers.

VISIT OF ADMIRAL PAULDING TO THE FRENCH FRIGATE.

Yesterday Rear-Admiral Paulding, commanding the New-York naval station, paid an official visit, in full uniform, to the French frigate Guirrere, and was saluted with 15 guns, which were returned by his flagship—the North Carolina. After remaining sometime on board, he returned in the steam-tug Vanderbilt. In the afternoon, several officers of the French fleet in port visited the Navy-yard, and were shown the curiosities there. They were not, however, allowed on board the Roanoke, it being contrary to orders.

DOCKING THE PASSAIC.

Orders have been received at the Navy-yard to send a large force of sailors to Hunter's Point to get the iron-clad battery Passaic on the railway where she is to undergo a thorough overhauling. Her plates are all to be put in their proper shape, and the turret, which got out of order in the fight at Charleston, is to receive some additions, which will render impossible a repetition of the disaster. The officers of the vessel have been detached, and are on a short leave of absence. The Passaic is the only one of the iron-clads engaged in the late attack, which was obliged to come North for repairs.

A Brooklyn Item.

As was announced in the Times, several weeks since, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher will sail for Europe in the steamship City of Baltimore, on the 30th inst. During the months of June and September, the pulpit of Plymouth Church will be occupied by Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, while July and August will be, as usual, given up to younger and less practiced teachers. Mr. Beecher will, we understand, occasionally write to the Independent, of which he resigns, during his absence, the editorial charge—the paper being left in the management of Rev. Dr. Joshua Leavitt, Mr. T. Tilton and Mr. Frederick Perkins.

There will be at the rooms of the Plymouth Church Sunday-school, to-night, a farewell Teachers' meeting, at which Mr. Beecher will be present, and, doubtless, receive the kind farewells of his attached colaborers in that particular vineyard.

Another Prize Fight.

A fight for $1,000 a side, between the Colorado "hitter," Cooley, and Keenan, who are well known in pugilistic circles, is to come off this morning about sixty miles from the city. It is stated that the affair will take place on Connecticut soil. A large number of the "fancy" left here in the late train last night to attend the "mill," also a large crowd went up the Sound in a boat chartered for the occasion.

Arrivals in the City.

Gen. Ward B. Burnett, New-York; Hons. J. Gaul, Jr., Hudson, and J. Vanderpool and lady, Albany; Drs. A. McFarland, Illinois, and J. S. Butler, Hartford; H. D. Bacon, St. Louis; W. Emerson, Boston; Jas. S. Withered, California; Thos. H. Hough, Ohio; and Jos. Davis, Philadelphia, are at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Hon. J. B. Usher, Secretary of the Interior: Hon. Geo. Ashman, Springfield, Mass.; T. Haskins Du Puy, Philadelphia, President of the Catawissa Railroad Company; Lieut.-Col. Wm. S. Fish, Gen. Schenck's Staff; Maj. Geo. B. Simpson, Newbern, N. C., and Wm. B. N. Cozzens, Philadelphia, are at the Astor House.

Gen. Torbert, U. S. Vols.; Jas. A. Farrill, Commissary-General of New-York; Hon. Wm. Kelly, Rhinebeck; three Indian Chiefs, accompanied by Chas. Simms, Kansas; Samuel Hanna, Fort Wayne; Capt. H. L. Robinson, U. S. Army; E. P. Keach, Boston; A. J. Kennett, St. Louis; and Taylor Blow, New-Orleans, are at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

A large number of eminent physicians and surgeons from the different States will meet at the Metropolitan Hotel this morning, in General Convention.

THE SENTENCE OF VALLANDIGHAM,

Confinement in Fort Warren Until the Close of the War.

Cincinnati, Monday, May 18.

Gen. Burnside's general order recites the proceedings of the Vallandigham Court-martial, the finding of which is a sentence to close imprisonment during the war in some fortress, to be selected by the commander of the department. The order names Fort Warren as the place of confinement.

The New-York Soldiers' Depot.

Yesterday the great edifice Nos. 50 and 52 Howard-street, which extends through to Mercer-street—the dimensions being fifty feet on Howard-street by ninety feet in depth, and twenty-two feet by seventy-five on Mercer-street—was formally opened as the New-York Soldiers' Relief Depot. It will be one of the permanent institutions of the State, and one of the best of the kind in the United States. There were no formal ceremonies; but the doors were opened for the admission of soldiers, and the great work of caring for the sick, discharged or furloughed soldiers of New-York State was undertaken. This institution will supply a long-felt want. The work it will perform for New-York soldiers is similar to that which the New-England Relief Association has done for the soldiers of New-England and measureably for the volunteers of other States. It will employ agents, or couriers, who will remain at Washington and other stations, or travel on the railroads, assisting the soldiers who are returning home, to the depot in this City, where they will be received, supplied with every needed comfort, including clothing, and sent to their homes without expense to them if they have not the means with which to make payment; while in all cases transportation orders, at Government rates, or about half the usual fare, will be supplied to all. If sick, medical attendance will be provided. The hospital ward of the depot will accommodate one hundred and fifty men. The building is fitted up in an excellent manner. There is extensive bathing and washing apparatus, including a considerable number of baths. A company of soldiers could bathe in an hour. The dining hall is very large. Three to five hundred men could be provided with dinner at two or three hours' notice, and the sleeping accommodations are ample for over five hundred men. One or two regiments of men could be provided, if necessary, with barrack accommodation. Reading and writing rooms are provided, and it may be said generally that the institution is as nearly perfect as it could be made, the sum of seventeen thousand dollars, we understand, having been expended in the fitting out alone. The plan of the institution was formed in January last, by Mr. R. G. Nellis, of this City. If the original intention is carried out, which is likely to be the case, the New-York Soldiers' Relief Depot will provide for the transaction of all business which may be necessary for the soldiers, as well as their relief when in need; and the depot will finally become a "Rest" or "Home." The institution is under the direction of a Board consisting of Adjutant-General Sprague, Inspector-General Miller, Quartermaster-General Talcott and Surgeon-General Talcott. Its officers are all well known gentlemen, as follows: Superintendent, Col. John S. Neville; Outside Superintendent, R. J. Nellis; Assistant Superintendent, L. B. Husted, with other officers, including station agents William Turner and W. H. Abell, six couriers, three of whom start for Washington to-night, and a general agent for the State, John F. Seymour.

A Sewing-machine which will not embroider as well as stitch, may answer well for making shirts, but is not fit to be called a family sewing-machine. Mothers delight in ornamenting the garments of their little ones. A leaf, flower, vine or wreath, wrought there, is the sweetest language of the heart. A sewing-machine which can only stitch, and leaves the embroidery to be wrought tediously by hand, is not the one for home use. Costiveness.—No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails, and no one can expect to enjoy health permanently who permits it, for it is contrary to the economy of the system, and gives rise to a goodly proportion of the ills which afflict the human race. To neglect it, therefore, is to insure ill health of greater or less duration; yet, in attempting its removal, discrimination with regard to the remedies to be used is requisite. Violent purgatives temporarily remove obstructions, weaken the bowels, and reduce the strength of the patient, and are followed usually by greater constipation, rendering another and another dose necessary, until even the strongest purgatives lose their effect, and the patient's condition becomes deplorable. What is required is a gentle purgative—one having some action on the liver, and one that can be taken daily without impairing the strength of the patient, or injury to the system, until the tendency to constipation is removed. But few remedies have been found to meet these requirements, and of these few probably none have been so successful, as demonstrated by in my years' use, as Dr. JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS. They are usually taken every night at bedtime, causing, in proper doses, no inconvenience during the night, and producing no sickness or unpleasant effect during the day, so that persons may follow their usual avocations, whether of business or pleasure, in the same manner as if they had not taken the Pills. Their good effect will begin to be obvious after a week or two's use, particularly in greater clearness of mind, and an increased energy and disposition to work and to enjoy life, and their continued use in the restoration of the health to the patient. Sold by KITCHEN, TYLER & CO., and at retail by Druggists generally.

DEAFNESS
NOISES IN THE HEAD,
Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.
Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.

"New-York, May 6.
I was entirely deaf in my left ear, accompanied by a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing, in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obliterated, is quite open, and I feel that the air-passage performs its functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from impaired hearing to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.
THOMAS GRANAN, No. 539 6th-av."

"New-York, May 7, 1863.
I have great pleasure to testify to the skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatsoever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's unsurpassing skill.
SAMUEL C. HUNT,
No. 6 Meserole-av., Greenpoint, L. I."

West Houston-st., New-York, Feb. 9, 1863.
I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.
I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.
JOHN TAYLOR,

New-York, July 19, 1862.
This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.
CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

No. 188 Mercer-st., New-York.
J. E. Von Eisenberg, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ
New-York, March 20, 1863.
"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

SCRANTON COAL AT AUCTION.
OFFICE OF THE DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD CO., No. 26 WILLIAM-ST.,
NEW-YORK, May 11, 1863.
In continuation of the system of monthly auction sales, this Company will offer, at public auction, on WEDNESDAY, 20th day of May, 1863, at 12 o'clock noon, at the room now used as the Merchants' Exchange, Nos. 26 and 28 Exchange place, corner of William-st., by SIMEON DRAPER, Auctioneer,
THIRTY THOUSAND TONS OF FRESH MINED SCRANTON COAL,
embracing all the usual sizes, and deliverable at their depot, Elizabethport, N. J., after the 1st of June next. They will repeat such auction sales on or about the 20th of each month, during the year 1863.
The sale will be positive. Each lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder; no bids, in any form whatever being made for account of, or on behalf of the Company.
Fifty cents per ton, in bankable funds, to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance in like funds, on receiving the order for the coal, which must be called for within 10 days thereafter, and the coal taken away within 30 days from the day of sale, unless navigation be obstructed. Buyers who wish, however, can have an additional 30 days for taking the delivery of their purchases, by making a further deposit of 50 cents per ton, within 10 days above specified. Interest, at 7 per cent. per annum, will in such case be charged on the balance, from the time stipulated for payment until paid; and 25 cents per ton to cover the expense of stocking the coal—both to be paid on delivery of order.
The other conditions of sale will be substantially those hitherto accepted by all purchasers, by private contract, of coal deliverable at Elizabethport, so far as applicable. The coal will be delivered direct from the cars on their arrival from the mines, when practicable—otherwise from the stock. These conditions will be modified to meet the wants of ocean steamers, whose arrival cannot be definitely fixed.
With a reliable avenue from the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valleys to tide-water, open every day in the year (Sundays excepted), requiring but 12 hours for the transit of the trains, the advantages of such sales, and the superior condition in which the coal will be delivered, are so apparent, they cannot doubt this mode of selling will commend itself to the favorable consideration of both the trade and consumers, whose cooperation is respectfully invited. C. R. ROBERT, President.

LAKE ERIE AND PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.
FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND BONDS.
The Lake Erie and Pacific Railroad Company, in the State of Indiana, now offer for sale their entire issue of $800,000 First, and only, Mortgage Bonds, bearing seven per cent. interest, payable semi-annually in the City of New-York.
These bonds are secured by a DEED OF TRUST, constituting the FIRST and ONLY lien upon the entire Road, its franchises, appurtenances, rolling stock, &c.
Its route is along the White Water Valley, from Cincinnati to Union, a distance of about sixty miles, and passes through the richest, best cultivated and most densely populated portion of the State of Indiana.
The road is the CENTRAL SECTION of the otherwise completed TRUNK LINE, connecting the great Southwest at LOUISVILLE, Ky., on the Ohio River, and at an early day with TOLEDO and SANDUSKY, on Lake Erie.
The Company is wholly without debt (except its bonded debt) and being strong in its local traffic, and connecting with roads that must necessarily largely increase the volume of its revenues, the BOARD OF DIRECTORS, with great confidence, invite the attention of capitalists to these securities, believing that they offer an opportunity for a first-class railroad investment, than which, in their judgment, there is no better to be had.
The published exhibits of the Company, together with a map showing the locality and advantages of the Road, can be had from either of the Trustees of the Deed of Trust, in this City, named below, and from either of whom the bonds are only to be had.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, Cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies: cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three-cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

PROPOSALS.

ANTHRACITE COAL FOR THE NAVY.

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
BUREAU OF EQUIPMENT AND RECRUITING, May 5, 1863.

SEALED PROPOSALS for furnishing Anthracite Coal for the Navy, to be delivered during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1864, will be received at this Bureau until 3 o'clock, the 6th day of June, 1863.

These proposals must be indorsed, "Proposals for Anthracite Coal for Steamers," that they may be distinguished from other business letters.

The offer must be for the delivery of 100,000 tons, of 2,240 pounds.

The coal must be of the best Buck Mountain or Black Heath, or of a kind equal to them in all respects for the purpose intended, which equality will be determined by a board appointed by the Secretary of the Navy, after the reception of the bids.

The name of the coal proposed to be furnished must be stated in the offer.

It is to be delivered in lumps of suitable size for naval steamers—clean, of uniform quality, selected free from impurities, unmixed; of which the contractor will be required to furnish such evidence as will be satisfactory; and be subject to such inspection as to quality and quantity as the Department may direct. The coal must, in all respects, be satisfactory to the inspector or inspectors to be appointed by the Bureau, who will have the right of peremptory rejection.

The coal is to be delivered on board vessels at such place in the port of Philadelphia as may be designated by the Bureau, and in such quantities and at such times as, in the opinion of the Bureau, the exigencies of the service may require; commencing when the vessel is reported ready to receive cargo, furnishing, if demanded, not less than 1,000 tons per day, to be distributed to each vessel as may be directed, until the loading is completed.

Proposals will likewise be received for the delivery of 20,000 tons of the same quality of coal, to be delivered in the port of New-York on board vessels as at Philadelphia.

In the case of failure to deliver the coal in proper quantity, of the proper quality, and at the proper time and place, the Bureau will reserve in the contract the right to purchase forthwith, at the contractor's risk and expense, that which may be necessary to supply the deficiency.

Any demurrage or other charge to which the Navy Department may be subjected from delay in the prompt delivery of the coal by the contractors will be deducted from their bills.

The price must be for the coal delivered on board vessels, on the terms and conditions above stated, at the contractor's risk and expense, and without extra charge of any kind.

The offer, as required by law, must be accompanied by a written guarantee, signed by one or more responsible persons, to the effect that they undertake that the bidder or bidders will, if his or their bid be accepted, enter into obligation, in such time as may be prescribed by the Bureau, with good and sufficient sureties, to furnish the supplies proposed.

No proposition will be considered unless accompanied by such guarantee; and the Department reserves the right to reject all the offers, if considered to be to the interest of the service to do so.

Two or more sureties, in a sum equal to the amount specified to be paid, will be required to sign the contract, and their responsibility will be certified by a United States District Judge, United States District Attorney, Collector, or Navy Agent.

As additional and collateral security, twenty per cent. will be withheld from the amount of all payments, which reservation is not to be paid, except by authority of the Secretary of the Navy, until the contract shall have been in all respects complied with; and the remaining 80 per cent., or other amount that may be due upon each bill, will be paid on a proper certificate being furnished by the inspector, and the bill approved by the Bureau, be paid by such navy agents as the contractor may name, within ten days after the warrants for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

It will be stipulated in the contract that if default be made in the delivery of the coal, in the quantity, of the quality, and at the place and time directed by the Bureau, then, and in that case, the contractor and his sureties will forfeit and pay to the United States, as liquidated damages, a sum of money not exceeding twice the contract price, which may be recovered from time to time, according to the act or acts of Congress in that case provided.

Bidders whose proposals shall be accepted, and none other, will be notified, and, as early as practicable, a contract will be transmitted to them, which they will be required to execute within ten days after its receipt at the Post-office or navy agency named by them.

The form of offer, guarantee, and certificate is herewith given:

THE COPPERHEAD COUNCIL

Three Thousand Citizens Assembled at Union Square.

Cheers for Vallandigham and Groans for Cheever.

Apologetic Letters from Prominent Democrats.

Speeches of Judge McCunn, Mr. Gunther, Prof. Mason, Ex-Marshal Rynders, and Several Others.

THE COUNCIL A FIZZLE.

In response to a call for a meeting of citizens of New-York to protest against the recent arrest and trial of Hon. C. L. VALLANDIGHAM, of Ohio, a gathering of about three thousand persons took place in Union-square, last evening. At the hour named for commencing, there was not a single auditor at two of the four stands, and at the other two, which were contiguous, there were but a few hundreds. The meeting at the main stand was not organized until half an hour afterward, and then by dint of music and torches, and the fortuitous circumstance that about that time, large numbers of citizens passed through the Square en route for home, the crowd was augumented to about the number named. It was a peripatetic crowd, and wandered from one stand to another with listless curiosity. The few hundreds who kept their places in front of the stands, however, made up in noise and enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers, and vigorously cheered all denunciations of the Administration. The allusions to the Conscription Act were everywhere received with expressions of opposition to the law, and a statement that VALLANDIGHAM would be rescued if brought through New-York on his way to Fort Warren, was vigorously cheered.

Ex-Mayor WOOD, Hon. AMASA J. PARKER, Senator WALL, Hon. H. J. MURPHY, RICHARD O'GORMAN, Esq., and other prominent Democrats, were advertised to be present and address the expected crowd. They failed to appear, as did also Hon. J. BROOKS, of the Express.

Apologetic letters were read from them, pleading "professional engagements," "previously-formed engagements," and "other engagements," as excuse for their non-appearance, and urging strongly support of the Constitution, respect for the law, and confidence in the Executive of the State.

A series of resolutions, denouncing the arrest and trial of Mr. VALLANDIGHAM, were read and adopted at each stand. They also deprecated the apparent violation of the sacred rights of citizenship, as evinced by the organization of military commissions, and in the arbitrary actions of these peremptory and "illegal" bodies.

STAND NO. 1.

Hon. LUKE F. COZZANS, President of the Association, called the meeting to order, and welcomed the audience as the vindicators of free speech. He nominated C. GODFREY GUNTHER for Chairman, who was unanimously chosen.

W. H. ALLEN, Esq., proposed a list of Vice-Presidents, among whom were RICHARD O'GORMAN and JAMES BROOKS.

Mr. S. W. CONE read with dramatic effect the resolutions.

ADDRESS OF ELI P. NORTON.

Mr. NORTON said that the only basis of a restoration of the Union is a combination for the purpose of removing from power every Republican official, State, national and municipal; that the Republicans had adopted a theory of the war that would forever rouse the people of the South to resistance; that the Government could only bring back the South by preserving the right of property in slaves; that Gov. SEYMOUR and his party believed that there were not at this time men in power in the North and South who could meet on terms of amity; that the Constitution does not authorize the trying of any citizen before a military commission; and that the liberties of the citizens of the State of New-York are in danger. His allusions to the Administration called forth frequent groans for President LINCOLN, and cries of "hang him."

SPEECH OF J. A. MACMASTERS.

Mr. J. A. MCMASTERS said that, so far as he knew Mr. VALLANDIGHAM's sentiments, he indorsed them. that VALLANDIGHAM was imprisoned on account of his virgin love for his country; that there is no question about the independence of the South, because Southern freemen will take care of that; that the South is free and independent now; that the question is about the liberty of the freemen of the North; that those liberties must be preserved by organization; that those organizations ought to be of a military character, with commissions from Gov. SEYMOUR; that the Administration had infringed upon the right of the people to bear arms, and that such as had not already got arms, should get them; that it was their duty to resist by force whenever the humblest citizen was incarcerated without due process of law, and that if that is not done it is a breach of faith on the part of the Governor of the state and all concerned.

SPEECH OF R. S. THARIN.

Mr. THARIN said he was from the Republic of Alabama, and he came expressly to denounce the Administration; that Mr. LINCOLN sits upon a kingly throne, and aspires to a regal crown; that never since this country was founded has human liberty been in such jeopardy; that the liberties of the North are lost, and that we should redeem them as our fathers did; that he impeached Mr. LINCOLN [cries of "hang him"] before that American citizen ship which he had outraged, and in the name of WASHINGTON, whose seat he polluted; that in the name of C. L. VALLANDIGHAM he execrated Mr. LINCOLN; [applause;] that the Provost-Marshals may find their offices less convenient than lucrative; that the reason the Administration sees no Union sentiment in the South is because there is no Lincolnism there; that our fathers went to war because they would not be loyal to a man, and that their sons will make peace rather than be loyal to a piece of a man; [groans for the President;] that he was not denouncing the President, but reviling a King; that Mr. LINCOLN, finding that the time was coming when he would be impeached, had determined to retain his office at all hazards; that Secretary CHASE had arranged the currency so that he can repudiate it at will, and that he would not disgrace the meeting by mentioning that renegade STANTON.

SPEECH OF JUDGE M'CUNN.

Judge MCCUNN said that in eighteen months this country would be too hot to hold the men who are hounding and hunting down these advocates of liberty and free speech—too hot for the miscreants who have hounded on and carried us to this state of despotism and degradation; that the war could never be ended by fighting.

SPEECH OF EDMON BLANKMAN.

Mr. EDMON BLANKMAN made a speech full of profane expressions. He said the poor man would be compelled to go to war under the Conscription act, while his neighbor could get off by the payment of three hundred dollars; that under the decoy of the war adopted by the Administration, he would be d—d if he thought they would go to the war. [Applause, and a voice, "You may bet your life we won't."] That if VALLANDIGHAM was brought through the City of New-York on his way to Fort Warren, they would get Judge MCCUNN to issue a writ of habeas corpus, and he'd be d—d if they wouldn't have him out. [Applause.] That they had a respect for the Constitution which the President sought to trample under foot.

A VOICE—Oh, the greenback.

Mr. BLANKMAN—Yes, and I'll be d—d if you'll ever see it redeemed again. [Applause and laughter.]

Soon after this, Stand No. 1 adjourned.

STAND NO. 2.

The speaking at this stand was not commenced until an hour after the appointed time, and then the audience, notwithstanding the energetic playing of a brass band, did not exceed two hundred persons. Mr. LORING ANDREWS was elected President by acclamation, and a large number of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries were elected in the same convenient manner.

MR. WILLIAM B. RANKIN

was introduced as the first speaker. He stated that they had met together to talk freely respecting the outrageous acts of the Administration, and to protest earnestly against its attempt to deprive them of their God-given, blood-bought birthrights. [Cheers.] These people at Washington had dared to seize the great champion of constitutional rights, C. C. VALLANDIGHAM—[cheers for VALLANDIGHAM]—and thrust him into a dungeon—[groans]—and it was, therefore, time for the people to buckle on their armor and resist such oppression. [Applause.] They should demand their rights and take them if refused. [Cheers.] Mr. RANKIN continued his remarks at length, speaking in a strain of bitter denunciation of the Administration, and finally gave way for JOHN MULLALY, of the Metropolitan Record.

SPEECH OF MR. MULLALY.

The speaker devoted himself mainly to a glorification of VALLANDIGHAM for his treasonable utterances, and an attempt to prove that the charges which the Ohio Congressman had brought against the Administration were true. He declared the war to be wicked, cruel and unnecessary, and carried on solely to benefit the negroes, and advised resistance to conscription if ever the attempt should be made to enforce the law. He paid a tribute of respect to Stonewall JACKSON, characterizing him as a hero who had shed fresh glory upon the name he bore, and held up our own Generals in unfavorable contrast. In conclusion he hoped for a restoration of the Union as it was, in which case the people would be careful never again to elevate a railsplitter to the office of President.

SPEECH OF CAPT. RYNDERS.

Capt. ISAIAH RYNDERS was next introduced, and caused great laughter by commencing his speech "Mr. Chairman and fellow-liege subjects of King Abraham the First." He expressed surprise at being permitted to speak, having heard that the police intended to break up the meeting, and said that in these days of arbitrary arrests and suppression of free newspapers, it required great courage to stand up and brave the bayonets of the minions of the Administration—the men who ran away at Fredericksburgh. [Applause.] It was an infernal degradation to America, enough to make the cheek of every man tingle with shame, that Gen. BURNSIDE should have dared to invade the sacred rights of the people in arresting VALLANDIGHAM. Mr. RYNDERS continued talking for some time in a strain of broad vulgarity, and freely emphasized his sentiments with glib profanity. Every outburst of swearing and bawdy allusion awakened the unbounded enthusiasm of his auditors, and the Captain, after exhausting himself by his violent oratory, sat down, and wiped the perspiration from his brow. He was followed by a Judge KELLY, (not the Police Justice,) a Mr. CALDWELL, and one or two others. The eloquence of these speakers, however, was not potent enough to hold the crowd together, and there was a general sauntering off as soon as RYNDERS had finished.

STAND NO. 3.

This stand was situated east of the Washington Monument, and was occupied exclusively by German speakers. The people did not gather around it so soon as they did around the other stands, but when the meeting had been called to order, the crowd became quite large. The meeting was presided over by Dr. BECKMAN, who, upon taking the stand, spoke at some length in denunciation of the course adopted in the case of VALLANDIGHAM. He considered that nearly all the orders of the Administration were opposed to the interests of the people. The speaker was followed by Dr. FRECH, DANIEL CATOIR, G. N. HERMANN, and others, all of whom took strong grounds against the policy of the authorities in the matter of VALLANDIGHAM's arrest.

STAND NO. 4.

This stand was erected directly in front of Dr. CHEEVER's Church, and owing to this or some other reason, it was very much neglected during the fore part of the meeting. After a while, however, a band of music came over from stand No. 2, and was followed by forty or fifty boys, which afforded an excuse for lighting up the lamps and organizing the meeting. This was done by appointing WILLIAM CHAUNCEY, Esq., President, who made no acknowledgment of the honor tendered him, and called upon the Secretary to read the list of Vice Presidents. These comprised twenty-seven names, and including such men as P. G. MALONEY, TERRENCE FARLEY, DANIEL E. DELEVAN, F. I. A. BOOLE, JAS E. KERRIGAN, &c. The boys here called for three cheers for VALLANDIGHAM, three more for Gen. MCCLELLAN, and three groans for Dr. CHEEVER, all of which were responded to. Mr. CASEY then read the resolutions, following which the chairman introduced DANIEL C. BIRDSALL, Esq., as the first speaker.

SPEECH OF MR. BIRDSALL.

Mr. BIRDSALL said he had not expected to speak, but all the speakers from abroad had disappointed them, and he felt it his duty to say a few words. They had met to protest against the arbitrary arrest of Mr. VALLANDIGHAM, which was one of the greatest outrages ever perpetrated. The speaker then proceeded to pitch into the Administration, which he said was not trying to restore the Union, but to subjugate the free people of the North. He pronounced the Conscription act unconstitutional, and although he did not recommend them to resist it, [a voice, "We will,"] yet he did recommend them to stand by the Democratic party, and to show by their votes next Fall whether they would allow the conscription in the State or not. He said that he weighed well all the words that he uttered, and he here announced that he was in favor of wiping out and repudiating the debt contracted by the Government for carrying on this war. It was contracted not to restore the Union but to free the nigger, and it had got to be repudiated. His father, he said, advised him not to speak there that evening, and his wife, with her arms around his neck, implored him not to come, lest he should say something rash: [laughter and applause:] but he was bound to exercise the freedom of speech, let what would come.

SPEECH OF PROFESSOR MASON.

The next speaker was Prof. CYRUS MASON, who was a little more moderate than his predecessors. He said that the meeting was called to consider whether this war was to be made the occasion for overthrowing civil liberty on this continent. Everything indicated that this was the purpose of the men in authority. The Government had got the muskets and the soldiers to carry on the war, and they had the power to turn those muskets against us. It was the duty of every citizen in this crisis to gather around HORATIO SEYMOUR, the Governor of this State, and assist him in enforcing the law. [A voice—"he is too slow."] The speaker replied to this that if he was too slow he was sure. After reverting to Rome, and the way she lost her liberties the Professor came down to VALLANDIGHAM and the way he lost his. It was reported that VALLANDIGHAM was to be sent to Fort Warren. He could well understand why, if the Government was going to imprison him they should send him to fanatical New-England. He, too, (the Professor,) might be served in the same way for speaking here to-night. ["Never."] If so, Gov. SEYMOUR would demand him from the Government. He believed there were one hundred thousand men in this State, who voted the Republican ticket even, that would back up the Governor. He said the course taken by the Government tended to break up this country into fragments, and inevitably lead to that result, and he believed our rulers were aware of it and desired it. It was their design to retain power without elections. The Chairman here suggested to Prof. MASON that there were other speakers, and he was occupying more time than he probably was aware of. The Professor took the hint, and brought his remarks to a close.

The Chairman then introduced Mr. J. C. VAN TOON, who spoke briefly, and was followed by one or two others, when Stand No. 4 adjourned. During the meeting the stand was casually visited by perhaps five hundred persons.

Miss Dickinson and the Brooklyn Academy.

Miss DICKINSON will speak this week in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. On Fast-Day, Rev. H. W. BEECHER took occasion to score the Directors of that building for "refusing to permit a woman to speak there in favor of Liberty." This statement was corrected by one of the Directors, but last night in giving notice of the lady's intended oration, he reiterated the statement saying that although he had been corrected, he was right and in no way mistaken.

In view of the publicity attending the affair, and in justice to the Directors of the Academy, we publish the following

CARD.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Some days ago, I took occasion publicly to contradict an unintentional misrepresentation made from one of the pulpits of this City, in regard to certain action of the Board of Directors of the Academy of Music. The controverted statement was that the house had been denied to Miss DICKINSON, "as a woman speaking for liberty." Since that time, no order has been made in the papers to the effect that the house, on the occasion referred to, was denied to Miss DICKINSON—an assertion which I do not, and never did, contradict.

The facts in the case are, that a single member of the Executive Committee, under the mistaken impression that all party politics had been excluded by a recent resolution of the Board, took the responsibility of refusing the building to Miss DICKINSON, on that ground alone. The public will not fail to see that this had nothing to do with her sex, or her opinions. The resolution referred to, I may add, did not entirely exclude political meetings, but merely required a special guaranty against damage done to the house.

At their most regular meeting, the Board of Directors reiterated emphatically their former policy—to make no discrimination between applicants for the use of the building, on the ground of religious or political opinion, where the interests of morality are not involved.

BROOKLYN, May 18. DIRECTOR.

The fact that Miss DICKINSON is permitted to speak in the Academy, and that in no way has the present action of the Board varied from its habitual course, would seem to be sufficient explanation, and at the same time an absolute justification of the Directors and the reputation of the Brooklyn Academy.

The Turf.

The Spring meetings are fast approaching. Very lively and exciting seasons are anticipated, and if the promises now so freely made are fulfilled, our neighboring Courses will this year see greater crowds and more sport than for many years gone by. On to-morrow, at the Fashion Course, Frank Temple, Gen. McClellan and Shark will trot three-mile heats in harness, for the proprietor's purse of $200. Mr. JO. CROCHERON, well-known for his genuine hospitality and his cultured habit of superintending racing affairs, considers this as the opening of the season at the Fashion Grounds, and if the weather be fair a large concourse of horsemen and amateurs will meet at the cheery mansion.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

Additional by the City of New-York.

The Aspect of the Polish Question Still More Threatening.

We have the following news from Europe by the City of New-York, in addition to that published yesterday morning:

ST. PETERSBURGH, Saturday, April 25.

The Northern Bee, which, in common with all other Russian papers, is subjected to the Imperial censorship, publishes a correspondence from Berlin, which is worthy of notice. It says:

"When the Polish insurrection broke out, Herr VON BISMARK-SCHONHAUSEN offered his services to Russia, although the latter Power neither asked nor required them. King FREDERICK WILLIAM agreed to the proposal made by his Minister to conclude a Convention, not that he anticipated that the insurrection would prove a source of danger to either Prussia or Russia, but solely with the view of doing a favor to his ally."

The Northern Bee then states the ground upon which its assertion is made.

A similar style of writing is adopted by all the Russian organs in reference to the Prusso-Russian Convention, and they are unanimous in stating that Prussia in her zeal was desirous of bringing about and had actually proposed a triple alliance, but that Austria was wise enough to reject it.

The conflicts which have taken place between the Absolutists and the Progressists, both in the Imperial Council and in the Chambers have, it is said, caused the Emperor much disquietude.

Vague reports are circulated of an approaching palace revolution. Complaints are made of the want of determination in the authorities here, and the lack of judgment displayed by the Government of Warsaw.

The Invalide Russe confirms the statement that the Emperor had called in all privates on furlough, with the object of increasing the strength of each battalion of the infantry reserve division to 1,000 men.

Much popular excitement prevails in St. Petersburgh, and revolutionary placards headed with the words, "Down with the ROMANOFFS;" "Down with the Germans," are occasionally found posted up in the streets.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Wednesday, May 6, 1863.

The Journal de St. Petersburgh of to-day, publishes the text of the notes addressed by the Swedish, Spanish and Italian Cabinets to the Russian Government on the Polish question, together with the replies of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF to the same.

The Swedish Cabinet in its note trusts to the humane and generous principles of the Emperor, and is sure that words of clemency and oblivion, with a perspective régime of wise liberty would suffice to completely restore order and tranquillity.

The Spanish note bitterly regrets that the impatience of the Poles should not have waited for the continuation of the system of concessions already accorded by the Emperor. Having acquired the experience that moderation pacifies more usefully and certainly than severity, the Queen of Spain asks pardon and indulgence for the Poles.

The reply of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF thanks the Queen amicably.

The note of the Turin Cabinet is couched in most amicable terms, and hopes that the Russian Court will see in the date of its communication a proof of the desire of Italy to always entertain the frankest and most sincere relations with Russia.

Prince GORTSCHAKOFF states in his reply that the Emperor has received the amicable assurances of the Italian Government with pleasure. As to the wishes it expresses in favor of Poland, the Prince observes that the Italian Government is not ignorant that revolution imposes a difficult task on governments. The Emperor, however, seeks to establish a lasting peace.

According to news received here from Lithuania, 4,000 Baskolinks, schismatic dissentients, armed by the Russian Government in the neighborhood of Dunaborg, are desolating Livonia with fire and sword. Shocking details have been received of their atrocities.

Yesterday a body of 600 Russians were repulsed by MINIEWSKI at Olkust.

The Seizure of British Ships.

CASE OF THE DOLPHIN.

Mr. W. J. GRAZEBROOK, the owner of the Dolphin, which was recently seized by one of our cruisers, sends to the London Times another correspondence relative to his vessel, which he had with Earl RUSSELL. He recapitulated the outrages to which the officers and crew had been subjected, and received the following letter from the Foreign Office in reply:

FOREIGN OFFICE, April 24, 1863.

SIR: I am directed by Earl RUSSELL to acquaint you that Her Majesty's Government having considered, in communication with the law officers of the Crown, the circumstances attending the capture of the Dolphin, as represented in your letters of the 13th and 15th inst., Lord LYONS will be instructed to apply to the Government of the United States for the release of the vessel, unless some valid ground for taking her before a Prize Court shall be alleged.

Lord LYONS will also be instructed to call the special attention of the Government of the United States to the manner in which a portion of the crew of the Dolphin was dealt with by the captor.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
E. HAMMOND.

A week later he wrote another letter, which elicited this response:

FOREIGN OFFICE, April 30.

SIR: I am directed by Earl RUSSELL to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th inst., and I am to state to you, with the request that it may be communicated to Mr. BISBEE, that his lordship has nothing to add to his letter which, by his direction, I addressed to you on the 24th inst., respecting that vessel.

With regard to the special protection which you seek for your steamer, the Adler, I am to state to you that Lord RUSSELL cannot promise to afford you any special protection for that vessel. His lordship can only say in general terms that Her Majesty's Government will not fail to protect, according to the principles of international law, and in the proper manner, the persons and property of Her Majesty's subjects engaged in a lawful trade and observing the obligations of neutrality.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
E. HAMMOND.

P. S.—Since this letter was written your letter of the 29th inst. has been received.

CASE OF THE PETERHOFF.

The Daily News, with the object of throwing some light on the character of the trade in which the parties connected with the Peterhoff were engaged, publishes the following document, signed by the shippers of the steamer:

No. 77, CORNHILL, LONDON, E. C.

We may state for the guidance of any friends who may be desirous of shipping to America that arrangements have been made for the dispatch of a vessel by us to the Rio Grande about the first week in December, that cost of freight and insurance on goods can be paid at the port of delivery. The services of the highly respectable firm of Messrs. BROWN, FLEMING & Co., at Matamoras, have been secured, and also those of Mr. REDGATE LLOYD's agent, an expert in cotton, and who has been resident nearly 40 years in Texas and Mexico. That gentleman's services will be of great value to shippers in respect to his local knowledge and influence, and also as regards agency of the internal transit, and landing and shipping of goods and cotton. Mr. HARDING, of the firm of Messrs. HARDING, PULLEN & Co., of this city, has been named and consented to act as factor for the receiving of the proceeds in cotton, and the equal distribution of the same to shippers according to value of respective shipments, and who will effect the necessary insurance. Further, a Mr. Bisbee, of the Confederate States of America, holds a contract from the Government, whereby he is to receive one hundred per cent. on invoice cost, payable in cotton at special valuation of all charges of freight, &c., for any goods he may deliver into the Confederate States. Said contract has been lately shared by Messrs. Fraser, Trenholm and others. He is willing to share the same, say to the extent of 50 per cent, with any houses who may feel inclined to ship. Moreover, said parties are at liberty to send out their own supercargoes, and if the goods can meet with a better market, shippers by our vessel may avail themselves of said contract or not, but in the latter case (if they do not send out under BISBEE's contract) there will be no certainty of getting cotton back, as the wagon traffic cannot be properly carried out without the aid of Government support in the shape of teamsters to attend to cattle, and which the Confederate Government will supply from the army to facilitate the inland transport of goods, and the bringing back of cotton for the contract. In the event of peace or cessation of hostilities, the Confederate Government, by the contract, binds itself to receive goods that are shipped but not delivered, and for any order not shipped, but in course of same, ten per cent. profit upon invoice cost and charges. Any further information you may require we shall be happy to give you our best efforts to obtain from the respective parties interested.

We remain, dear Sir, yours truly,
(Signed) BENNETT & WAKE

The Daily News adds that Mr. BENNETT was on board the Peterhoff when she was taken; Mr. WAKE was one of the deputation which waited on Lord RUSSELL to press for a spirited assertion of the rights of British commerce. Mr. REDGATE, mentioned in the circular, was a passenger by the Peterhoff, and wrote the protest against the seizure. Messrs. HARDING, PULLEN & Co. were the brokers for negotiating the Confederate loan, and Mr. HARDING, the gentleman named as the factor for the distribution of the proceeds of the cotton, was also one of the deputation to Earl RUSSELL. Mr. BISBEE, who holds the contract to deliver goods into the Confederate States, is a citizen of the South.

The following communication from the Foreign Office has been received by the owners of the Peterhoff:

How to become a gentleman is a great study. We should say, as a first step, go to No. 212 Broadway, and procure one of KNOX's elegant and stylish hats. It will attract so much notice and admiration that the rest of your apparel will pass muster at once. Try the receipt and see if we are not true prophets. His Spring style of hat is the most tasty ever gotten up in this city.

IODINE.

OF ALL REMEDIAL AGENTS, IODINE stands preeminent. The amount of ability, zeal and assiduity which has been devoted to the elucidation of its effects upon the

has not been exceeded in the instance of any other article in Materia Medica, and it is acknowledged to possess very great powers in the cure of many obstinate diseases, over which other remedies have little or no influence.

Iodine was discovered in the year 1812, and received its name from the Greek word which heads this article. It is an elementary body, obtained from seaweed, is very volatile, and has great control over

It neutralizes metallic mercury and all the mercurial compounds that can possibly occur in the living body.
